BY WALTER CHAMBLIN,

Hot Springs, Ark., August 30.—(AP) A native son of the southland—Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, tonight formally accepted the democratic vice presidential nomination and at the same time issued a challenge to political foes to fight out the campaign on the issues of farm relief, prohibition, merchant marine, and political corruption.

Without mincing words the senator accused Herbert Hoover, the republican presidential nominee, with the "failure of farm relief legislation" during the Harding-Coolidge administration, and on prohibited declared that "there always has been room in the democratic party for those who differ as to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing traffic in alcoholic beverages."

A steady rain that had soaked the crowd had stopped falling by the time Mr. Robinson began his address. The night, however, was pitch black, although there should have been a full moon, and the dampness of the atmosphere was filled with a threat of rain.

Standing under a battery of bright lights in the roof of the canvas over the platform the senator could be seen distinctly from all points in the little natural amphitheater in front of the Arlington hotel where the ceremonies were held.

After warning that "political serpents" were abroad seeking to poison the minds and thoughts of the people, Mr. Robinson plunged directly into a discussion of the farm relief question.

Referring to this as "perhaps the most important issue" of the campaign, Mr. Robinson reviewed the history of republican activities in regard to agriculture. He said the facts proved that "republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers of the nation."

"Mr. Hoover, as the president's trusted adviser, is perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation during the eight years referred to than any other single political issue."

Mr. Robinson, standing close to the microphone which carried his words from coast to coast over a radio hook-up of about half a hundred stations, read his speech with deliberation. Holding a copy of the text in his right

Change in Hoover De-

Visit to Secretary by
Editor of Negro Paper.

In spite of vehement denials that Herbert Hoover, republican candidate for president in his capacity as secretary of commerce, revoked a long-standing order under which white and negro employees were segregated in his department, such an order was issued and segregation in the department no longer exists, negro and white employees today working side by side in that department, according to a statement made public Thursday by United States Senator William J. Harris.

While serving as director of the United States census in the department of commerce during the Wilson administration, Senator Harris was responsible for the segregation order. This order was in force from that time until Secretary Hoover, as a counter for the republican presidential nomination, opened his campaign in an Ohio city.

Just before the Ohio primary a negro editor from an Ohio city, appeared at the office of Mr. Hoover to discuss the segregation order, according to Senator Harris. The matter of segregation evidently was discussed in Mr. Hoover's office because the facts as understood in the bureau of census appeared in Washington newspapers at the time and also was shown clearly in the correspondence between Secretary Hoover and Senator Harris.

SMITH BACKER
IS THREATENED
BY ARMED MEN

Jasper, Ala., August 30.—(AP) Warning him that "somebody would be killed over this election," three men armed with pistols called C. L. Robins, local democratic leader, from his home here shortly before midnight last night and told him that his talk about the Smith campaign must cease. Robins reported to county officials today.

Robins reported that a fourth man remained in an automobile parked in front of the house while the three men were talking to him.

Officers were told that the men accused Robins of making derogatory remarks about Rev. L. D. Patterson, a speaker at an anti-Smith rally held here earlier last night.

Robins, a prominent merchant of Jasper, withdrew today as a candidate for alderman of the city. He did not say whether his withdrawal was connected with the visit of the armed trio to his home.

COSTA RICA ASKS
LEAGUE TO DEFINE
MONROE DOCTRINE

Request of Little Nation
Throws Bomb Into Meeting; Will Be Considered
Behind Closed Doors.

BY HENRY WOOD,
(United News Staff Correspondent.)

Geneva, August 30.—(United News.)—The little nation of Costa Rica has raised the most perplexing question before the fifty-first session of the League of Nations council, which convened here today.

Costa Rica's demand for an interpretation of the Monroe doctrine has not been placed on the assembly agenda, but President H. J. Procope, foreign minister of Finland, will submit the question to a session, probably on Friday. Then, it is hoped, a reply will be framed and later the council members will decide whether they will take up the issue at a public session.

There has been wide discussion of the problem, but league council members have been anxious to handle the matter without embarrassing the league. The Monroe doctrine, it is pointed out, is a unilateral declaration and a treaty affair for the assembly.

Although the council will consider a number of important international problems, most interest centers on the assembly which opens here Monday. All is ready for the gathering of league delegates from all parts of the world and, in view of the recently signed Briand-Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, some important settlements are expected in that connection.

Irak Is Recognized.

The congress of European minorities, representing 35,000,000 Europeans of 12 different nationalities, distributed under 17 different states, called Secretary Kellogg today congratulating him on the signing of the pact in Paris and urging him to use his influence with other signatories of the treaty to assure the

W. D. Upshaw Says Pro-

Tuesday Night Will Not

A challenge by former Senator Thomas W. Hardwick to Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New York, to meet him in debate at the Atlanta auditorium next Tuesday night, issued by the Georgian after Dr. Straton had declared in New York Wednesday that he "hoped to get my old friend Hardwick on the mourners' bench," met defeat Thursday when William D. Upshaw, in charge of the meeting here, refused to permit Senator Hardwick to take part in the program.

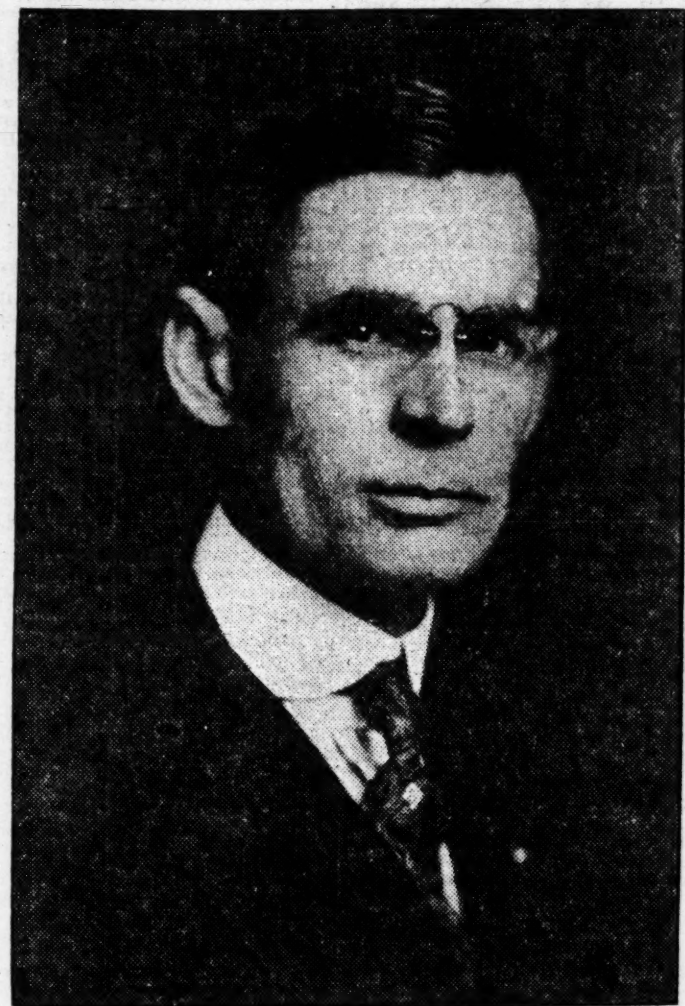

Mr. Upshaw announced that "he hired the hall and Hardwick would have to speak elsewhere."

It was the second time the former senator had run into a stone wall in his attempt to meet on the platform the pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York, an arch foe of Governor Smith. The democratic campaign committee of the county in which Raleigh is located challenged Dr. Straton to debate Hardwick in Raleigh during the latter's journey there, but the pastor refused the challenge to the "committee in charge" and that body refused to sanction the debate.

Thursday Senator Hardwick sent to Dr. Straton the following telegram: "Dr. John Roach Straton, 'Care Calvary Baptist Church, New York, N. Y.' Press reports quote you as wiring to Chairman Griffin, of the Wake

Real Estate Concern Says
Evangelist Failed To Keep Promise of Building Church.

Los Angeles, August 30.—(United News.)—Charges that Aimee Semple McPherson mixed religion and real estate for fraudulent financial gains were contained in a damage suit filed in superior court here today.

The evangelist, according to the complaint filed for Mrs. M. W. Puryear, entered an agreement with real estate promoters to influence sales in a Lake Tahoe subdivision. This was done through announcements that Mrs. McPherson would build a tabernacle at the lake and start a religious colony there, it was asserted.

The complaint declared that Mrs. McPherson had no intention of going through with this plan and put it forward only as a means of swelling commissions of 10 per cent allegedly received on sales to members of her congregations here.

Mrs. Puryear asked return of $5,000 which she invested in the Lake Tahoe property and additional damages of $1,960. H. L. Henry, C. E. Kenyon and Ralph Jordan were named as co-defendants.

Through Mrs. McPherson's activities as promotional agent members of her Angelus temple congregation invested more than $150,000 in the Tahoe holdings, the complaint continued.

NEW LINK OPENED IN INLAND CANAL
BOSTON-FLORIDA

Belhaven, N. C., August 30.—(AP) Attended by a mammoth celebration, the newest link in the inland waterway between Boston and Key West, Fla., was opened here today.

More than 6,000 persons from all parts of North Carolina and the southern section of Virginia were present to hear addresses of political leaders who were in part responsible for interesting the United States government in investing in the development.

The waterway link opened today connects the Alligator and Pungo rivers by a 12-foot ditch, 22 miles in length, and makes possible the passage of smaller vessels inland up the entire eastern coast to Boston.

Alabama Republicans
Give All Electoral Seats to Democrats Who Have Gone Over to Hoover.

Birmingham, Ala., August 30.—(AP) Convinced that the old guard republican vote in Alabama is safe for Herbert Hoover under any circumstances, the executive committee of that minority party in this state today dipped into the ranks of their hereditary foe, the democrats, for the personnel of the presidential electoral slate, in the November election.

In doing so a precedent unheard of to the oldest "rock ribbed" democrat in the state was established. The move was a strategic one, O. D. Street, republican national committeeman, said, with the view toward having democrats cast their votes for democrats who had aligned themselves with the republican cause. The selections will be by unanimous vote of the committeemen.

The entire slate of electors as listed at state republican headquarters here follows:

First, Mrs. Martha Yerger, Mobile, daughter of Chief Justice John C. Anderson, of the Alabama supreme court.

Second, Dr. A. H. Webb, prominent physician of Atmore, and a life-long democrat.

MUSSOLINI ENEMY
ENTICED TO ITALY AND PUT IN JAIL

Paris, August 30.—(AP) General Cesare Rossi, a former minister in the Mussolini cabinet and one-time leading fascist, who went into exile after the Matteotti affair several years ago, is reported to have been arrested at Campione, Italy, after being induced to cross the frontier by a woman fascist agent.

Rossi was one of the founders of fascism. At one time he was a bosom friend of Premier Mussolini, but of late was one of the premier's bitterest enemies. He had been in Paris ever since leaving Italy.

When Rossi escaped he vowed vengeance against Mussolini and told a newspaperman that he "would have Mussolini strung up higher than any yardarm pirates ever knew."

Slight Retail Trade De-

in Other Lines; Atlanta
Business Situation Good

Material increases in wholesale trade, more building activity and improvement in agricultural conditions offset a further slight seasonal decline in retail trade in the sixth federal reserve district during July, the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank reported Thursday in its monthly review.

Despite the slight retail trade slump in July this year, business was better by 2.5 per cent than for the same period the preceding year. Wholesale business increased materially, while building activity showed an increase of 12 per cent, the report revealed. Commercial failures in the district, in the point of liabilities, "increased slightly over June, but were less than in July a year ago," the report said.

The report cites smaller production of cotton yarn and cloth and lays the loss to curtailed operations on the part of mills of the various localities. Rapid growth and improvement of conditions generally was indicated in the market reports of the department of agriculture.

Atlanta Trade Increases.

In the wholesale trade, Atlanta showed a slight decline in the sale of groceries during the month, but this was more than offset by increases in other lines. The rate of stock turnover for 1928 was 22 in comparison with 25 for 1927.

STANDARD OIL BAN
IN GEORGIA SOUGHT

Kentucky Organization Is Accused of Illegally Fixing Gasoline Prices in This State.

Columbus, Ga., August 30.—(AP) Charging that the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, through its agents, has attempted to regulate and fix the retail price of gasoline in Georgia in violation of state and federal laws, operators of the Hamilton garage here today filed suit in Muscogee county superior court asking that it be restrained from doing business in this state and that its charter be annulled.

Judge C. F. McLaughlin issued a rule nisi citing the defendants to show cause on September 8 why a restraining order should not be granted.

The petitioners, in their application for injunction, charged that a conspiracy or combination existed between the Standard Oil company and other gasoline and oil distributing companies in this section whereby the retail price of gasoline "is fixed, maintained and kept at a certain level."

Because of this, it was alleged, the petitioners are unable to obtain gasoline and oil from other companies. It was said that the defendant breached a contract with the Hamilton garage and refused to furnish them gasoline and oil after the garage had been warned against cutting the retail price of gasoline from 23 to 20 cents a gallon in July.

The petitioners were C. J. Irvin, G. L. Irvin and Mrs. Henry J. Irvin, of Hamilton, near here, where their business is located.

Atlantan Is Off Form But
"Calamity Jane" Comes

BY DICK HAWKINS,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Chicago Golf Club, August 30.—Eight American amateur golfers just had another day of practice in preparation for the national amateur tournament to be held week after next at Braeburn over in Massachusetts.

According to the golfing calendar of the Royal and Ancient Golf association of Great Britain and the United States Golf association, this day was the first of two days to be devoted to the playing of the international Walker cup matches. But in the face of facts that calendar must be wrong for the four American teams played 36 holes of fair, indifferent and bad golf to win all four matches by washout scores.

Jones and Evans downed Major Hewlett and Hope 5-3 after a strong finish. Watts Gunn and Roland McKenzie found themselves four down to Beck and MacCallum at the end of the first four holes, but won out, 7-5. Von Elm and Sweetzer trimmed T. P. Perkins and Dr. William Tweedell, 7-6, while Francis Oulmet and Jimmy Johnston won 4-2 from T. A. Torrance and Eustace Storey.

There were flashes of brilliance in the American games, but it was mostly the pitiable golf of the invaders that left them at the end of the first day with a large horse collar while the Americans were nursing four large points in a possible four.

Playing at the strange game of two ball foursomes, the gentlemen from America captured today. Though it may be true that "Britons never, never will be slaves," they can plainly feel the clank of American irons around their golfing ankles.

The English, with their unorthodox "half swinging" and cross footed putting, watched the hopes of Britain go down the drain today. Though it may be true that "Britons never, never will be slaves," they can plainly feel the clank of American irons around their golfing ankles.

Some of the wise birds wondered why Robert Tyre should place himself on the second team with Chick Evans and play the Sweeter and Von Elm against the British captain, Tweedell, and his partner, Perkins. Tonight those wise birds know that Robert Tyre was the wise bird after all. It was only by dint of a brilliant finishing nine that Jones and Evans could close out the British 5-3 while Von Elm and Sweetzer took their match 7-6.

After finishing the morning round all even, Ambassador Morrow and his stolid partner, Mr. Hope, Bobby and Chick lost the first hole of the second.

CALLES TO QUIT
AS MEXICAN CHIEF
DECEMBER FIRST

Mexico City, August 30.—(AP) Formal declaration by President Calles of his intention to retire from office at the expiration of his term November 30 and his refusal to be considered as a possibility to succeed himself, will be contained in his address to congress which convenes in regular session late Saturday, it is said here.

The congressional session, which was to have certified General Alvaro Obregon as Mexico's president, will select some one to become president pro tem, or provisionary president, December 1, perhaps for two years, perhaps for a shorter time. The time will depend entirely upon the date which congress fixes for the new presidential election.

SEARCH CONTINUES

Report of Auditor Is Expected Tuesday.

Clinton S. Carnes, treasurer of the Baptist Home Mission board, who mysteriously disappeared August 15 without leaving a trace as to his whereabouts and who now is the object of a nation-wide search, Thursday was identified as the C. S. Carnes, who served two terms in prison, one at the Atlanta federal penitentiary, by Bertillon experts, who declared photographs of the missing man and the former prisoner correspond in every detail.

This information fell like a bomb shell late Thursday afternoon among members of the mission board at a meeting which Dr. B. D. Gray, executive secretary and acting treasurer, called to hear sensational reports about the missing treasurer that had been brought to his attention.

Members of the family of the missing Baptist official denied having any knowledge he was ever behind prison bars.

Served Two Terms.

Prison records show that a C. S. Carnes served the first prison stretch at Clinton Prison, Missouri, following conviction on charges of using the mails to defraud. He was sentenced to five months at that time and was discharged in the spring of 1915. The trial was held at Kansas City.

On March 6, 1916, he was sentenced to serve 13 months in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for using the mails to defraud. This trial was held in the federal court of the northern district of Alabama, and he was received officially at the Atlanta institution on March 7, 1916, the record shows.

Records of the Georgia State Prison also are listed on the record. He was known as prisoner No. 6237. His religious preference was Methodist on the prison record.

Bertillon and identification experts compared the pictures of the missing man and the C. S. Carnes, who served the prison stretch, and after an exhaustive study declared there could be no doubt that the photographs were of the same man.

Members of the mission board Thursday continued their efforts to locate the missing official and in the meantime Ernst and Ernst, accountants, continued their audit of the records of the treasurer in an effort

MRS. BAKER SEEKS DIVORCE IN RENO

Reno, Nev., August 30.—(AP)—Charging that her husband, William Edgar Baker, New York architect, dog and cattle fancier and yachtsman, threatened to shoot her, kept two guns handy and boasted about his aim, Mrs. Ella M. Baker has filed suit here for divorce.

In her complaint Mrs. Baker alleged that her husband was jealous and charged her with undue familiarity with a mutual friend. Last April he ordered her to leave with a threat that he would shoot her if she refused to obey, the complaint said. She declared she left him then.

With the suit an agreement for settlement of property rights in which Mrs. Baker waived all claim to the privilege of benefitting as beneficiary of several life insurance policies was filed. She would receive all motor cars, motor boats and furniture acquired by the couple since their marriage and property at Mastic, L. I.

8-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS BADLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Joyce Dyer, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dyer, of 93 Clifton avenue, sustained a possible fracture of the skull and painful bruises about the body shortly before noon Thursday when she was knocked down by an automobile driven by Claude Williams, of 1401 Meridian avenue. The child was hit as she ran out into the street in front of her home, according to police reports.

Call Officers J. S. Melton and C. T. Watkins reported that the accident seemed to be unavoidable and no case was made against Williams at the request of Mrs. Dyer. The child's condition was reported as serious at Grady hospital late Thursday night.

The agreement also provided that Baker retain all property acquired by him before marriage, his medals, trophies, dogs and other pets. The Bakers were married in New York June 1, 1914. They have no children.

Threat of Rain Is Seen for City This Afternoon

The weather seems to have fallen into force of habit with regard to afternoon thundershowers, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Thursday in forecasting possible showers for this afternoon.

Alabama reported showers all over the state up to early Thursday morning, and it is possible that the rains may drop over and pay Atlanta a visit this afternoon, Mr. von Herrmann explained.

Weather conditions will remain the same today as they have for sometime past, with the possibility of a slight increase in temperature, the weather man said. The thermometer recorded from 73 to 88 degrees Thursday, and Mr. von Herrmann believes the temperature will go as high as 88 today. There has been a cool condition in the northwest for the past 10 days, but there is no indication of the cooler weather spreading to Atlanta right away, he said.

BUILDING AND LOAN LEADERS PLANNING GRIFFIN MEETING

Building and loan factors from five southeastern states will hear discussions vitally affecting their calling at Griffin, Ga., on October 10-11, it was announced here Thursday by Horace A. Russell, vice president of the Georgia Building and Loan League and secretary of the Southeastern Building and Loan conference.

Mr. Russell said that at least 150 members of the two bodies would meet at the joint session of two days in the Spaulding county city. He stated that George Carswell, secretary of state, would be invited to speak from the standpoint of Georgia officialdom. Other invitations to notable members of the building and loan field, include Leon Cash, a leading spirit in the North Carolina Building and Loan League, and a resident of Winston-Salem.

The president of the Georgia League is O. E. Black, of Columbus, and the leader of the companion organization of the southeast is E. M. Miller, of Jacksonville.

Delegates from Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Alabama are expected to swell the attendance.

SIMPLE FUNERAL FOR MRS. CHAPLIN

Hollywood, August 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, in death, will rest forever in the film city where her two sons, Charles and Sydney, rose to motion picture fame.

Simple almost to a point of inconspicuity were plans for her funeral and interment here today.

While the movie population wished eagerly to participate in the services to show in a measure its admiration for Mrs. Chaplin and its sympathy for her son, one of the latter, Charles, nearly all of his life in the spotlight of public attention, desired privacy in the last moments with his mother. Only a few family friends were asked to attend.

GEORGIA PRODUCTS TAKE LEADING PART IN WEEK'S MARKETS

Georgia's farm products stood out prominently on the fruit and vegetable markets during the past week and were netting growers substantially good prices, according to information received by the Associated Press from the department of agriculture weekly market review report.

Georgia led all other states in the shipment of watermelons, sending to the market 285 carloads last week, while Missouri was second with 130 and North Carolina, Texas and Oklahoma each shipping approximately 100 carloads. Quality was generally good and prices satisfactory, the report stated. The Tom Watson variety from southern sections ruled, bringing $175-$200 per carload in consuming centers.

Peach prices advanced generally, the report continued, following the light shipments of mid-August. The New York city price on Georgia and North Carolina Elbertas was $1.50-$2.25, and several markets reported Virginia arrivals at $1.75-$3.00 per crate or basket.

California points oriented 2-3¢, while North Carolina points going to canneries, F. O. B. prices on Elbertas in southern Illinois advanced $1.35-$1.50 per bushel basket.

The week's forwarding of sweet potatoes increased to 475 cars. Virginia started 245 cars, North Carolina 140 and Maryland 40. The yellow variety sweet potatoes from Georgia were selling in consuming centers at $3-$5 per barrel, while North Carolina arrivals ruled at $3.50-$6 and eastern shore of Virginia stock sold at $4.50-$5.50.

POLICE SINGERS TO ATTEND CHURCH IN OAKLAND CITY

The singing class of the Atlanta police department Thursday accepted an invitation extended by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to sing at the Oakland City Baptist church Sunday.

The class, with Lieutenant E. C. Hudson as president, is made up of approximately 100 policemen and their wives and has enjoyed a very successful season thus far this year. They meet the first and third Sundays of each month in the rec room's room. They will attend Mayor Ragsdale home church this week in lieu of the regular meeting.

Chicago Police Hold Alleged Check Forger

Chicago, August 30.—(AP)—C. G. Campbell, who police said was a check forger, wanted on forged charges in many cities, is under arrest here. A detective who had just read a description of Campbell in a hotel lobby saw Campbell talking with a clerk about Cities where he is wanted include Memphis, Atlanta, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York, Columbus, Toledo, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Chicago. Police said. Campbell had been employed as a salesman. He said most of the checks he passed were small, but among those which he is charged with forging are a draft for $800 on the Capital National Bank, New York; a check for $805 on the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, New York, and one for $740 on the Union Bank and Trust company, Philadelphia.

HARRIS VERIFIES ANTI-SEGREGATION

phens, of Mississippi, according to Senator Harris. After the visit of the negro editor to Mr. Hoover's office an oral order was issued under which segregation was revoked and white men and white women were put to work side by side with negro men and women.

The negro editor was then ushered through the bureau to be shown that a segregation order was not then in effect. There is no segregation in that department, according to Senator Harris.

If an order revoking segregation had been issued in this department, even by the assistant secretary of commerce it certainly would have been with the knowledge and approval of Secretary Hoover. Mr. Hoover is the responsible head of the department of commerce and the bureau of the census is a part of that department. Such a decisive move as the breaking up of segregation of the races in the bureau of census could not have been made without responsible authority," Senator Harris said.

The statement of Senator Harris, written as he was leaving Atlanta for the Robinson notification meeting, and given out yesterday, was as follows: "The Wilson administration came in in March 4, 1913. On July 1 of that year, I took oath of office as director of the census. Within a few days I selected the chief clerk of the bureau."

"I discussed with the chief clerk the question of the segregation of negroes in the census bureau. I employed in the department under civil service. There were a number of these negro clerks who had always worked alongside of white men and women clerks in the different sections of the census office. I issued to the chief clerk an oral order that the segregation be made. The negro clerks were assigned the preparation of a volume on negro population (1790-1915, inclusive). There was no complaint from any negro in the organization; and when the negro paper published by one Tyler, formerly a republican of Rochester in the census bureau, attacked the bureau of the census because of this segregation, the three section chiefs named prepared a reply which they signed and which was published upholding the arrangement I, as director of the census, had made.

Segregated in 1920.

"During the census of 1920 there were at one time employed by the bureau of the census as card punchers on the censuses of population and agriculture 300 or 400 negro clerks who came to the bureau under civil service, and these clerks had their own separate organization. So far as the bureau ever knew they were entirely satisfied with this arrangement of segregation. My segregation order came from the bureau of the census until recently.

"During the primary campaign in Ohio in which Secretary of Commerce Hoover was seeking the Ohio delegation against Senator Willis, it appears that a negro editor out there by the name of Curry, who had been selected as a candidate for district delegate raised, or some member of his race raised, the question that Secretary Hoover was not a friend to the negro race because he permitted the segregation of the negro from the white clerks in the bureau of the census, a branch of the department of commerce. Just before the Ohio primary Curry came to Washington. The matter of segregation in the census bureau was evidently discussed in Secretary Hoover's office, because the facts as understood in the bureau of the census appeared in the Washington papers at the time and were also shown clearly in the correspondence between Secretary Hoover and Senator Stephens, of Mississippi. Senator Stephens wrote the secretary a personal letter under date of April 2, 1928, to which Secretary Hoover replied under date of April 7; Senator Stephens again wrote the secretary on April 10 to which Secretary Hoover did not reply. This correspondence appears in the Congressional Record, page 10804 under date of June 4, 1928. The fact is that the bureau of the census through its director and chief clerk, either or both, was notified one afternoon about the end of March that the segregation must be broken up immediately. Evidently there was no written order issued by the secretary to the bureau officials to take this action, but the chief clerk stated to employees that the order had been received from the secretary's office. The order may have come by telephone or it may have been talked over with the director or with the chief clerk while calling them to the department of commerce building for this purpose. The bureau of the census is situated approximately a mile from the department of commerce, where Secretary Hoover has his personal office.

Sections Broken Up.

"At the time there were only two sections of negro clerks in the bureau of the census, the larger one under Pelham from Michigan, located on the first floor of the bureau of the census, and the smaller one, under Hall from Illinois, located on the second floor of the bureau. This order was carried out thoroughly the next morning. The negro section was broken up and the negro clerks both men and women widely distributed around the bureau in sections previously composed entirely of white men and women. The director and chief clerk personally attended to the wide distribution of the negro clerks. The afternoon following this action, one of the minor officials or employees of Secretary Hoover's office came down to the census bureau with the negro editor, Curry, and together with the chief clerk of the bureau, Arthur J. Hirsch, of Illinois, they went over the bureau to see that the segregation had been broken up completely and that the negro clerks had been given good assignments among the white men and women clerks. Whether or not this order was issued personally by Secretary Hoover or by the Assistant Secretary Brown is not known by census employees but of course is known by the officials now in charge of the office.

"The matter has been kept entirely as a confidential one. As a fact, if the order was issued by Assistant Secretary Brown, it would have been issued of course with the knowledge and approval of Secretary Hoover. Mr. Hoover is the responsible head of the department of commerce and the bureau of the census is part of his department. Such a decisive move as the breaking up of segregation of the races in the bureau of the census could not have been made except on responsible authority."

STRATON-HARDWICK DEBATE BARRED

County Democratic club, at Raleigh, N. C., that you hoped to get even my old friend Hardwick on the corners bench if not actually across the line into the kingdom. Since your North Carolina friends in whose hands you placed yourself do not seem to have developed sufficient grit to face the music, and since you are advertised to speak in Atlanta at an early date, assailing the democratic party and its candidate, I respectfully suggest that you could have no finer or better opportunity of getting me on the mourners' bench than when you speak here. It may be that your Georgia friends, having more knowledge of your splendid oratorical abilities than your North Carolina friends, will also develop more spunk. In that hope I challenge you to divide time with me here. If you consent, I will bear one-half of the expenses of the meeting and a committee of the Young Men's Democratic League, of Fulton county, will cooperate with any committee of friends you may name in arranging all details. Please advise me promptly.

"THOMAS W. HARDWICK."

It was while he was waiting for a reply from Dr. Straton that former Senator Hardwick learned that Mr. Upshaw had vetoed the plan.

The former congressman explained that the program for Dr. Straton's appearance already had been filled. It is to consist of "patriotic" talks and speeches against Governor Smith, with the leading address to be made by Dr. Straton.

"Our program is filled with anti-Smith democratic speakers and we have no place for a Smith man—now," he said. He added that he said "now" because he "later hoped" to see Hardwick and Dr. Straton on the same platform."

Mr. Upshaw received a telegram from Dr. Straton Thursday in which the minister said he was "declining" challenges from Hardwick and others on the ground that he had "invited" Governor Smith to appear and defend his record."

rights of the minority peoples as one of the surest methods of preventing war.

Another move for independence was made today when the council granted Irak the right to sign a league convention as a separate state. The recognition was granted upon recommendation of Lord Cusheendun, of England, and Irak will sign the convention for suppression of traffic in obscene literature.

The council approved a report of the economic committee recommending an unrestricted "favored nation" clause in all commercial tariff treaties.

Upon the report of Von Schubert, of Germany, the council urged speedy ratification by all nations of the league's convention for the abolition of import and export restrictions which is "calculated to contribute largely to the improvement of commercial relations of peoples and the establishment of international peace."

Lord Cusheendun, in an interview today, warned against the mistake of idealists claiming everything for peace has been accomplished by the Briand-Kellogg pact.

"One does not arrive at a new haven so quickly," he said, pointing out that it would have no immediate effect on disarmament.

A delicious cake, with a choice of many icings . . .
Stone's Silver
Bar Cake

IT IS a white cake—oblong in shape, so that every slice is iced on three sides! Made of specially milled cake flour, the kind the best cooks specify, country butter, fresh eggs and milk. And all the icings are made with pure, natural flavors. Artificial coloring and synthetic flavors are never permitted in Southern cakes.

The icings are made in the following flavors: Pineapple, coconut, peach and chocolate. In addition, we make a chocolate-iced Devil's Food in this bar-cake shape. The icing, which is called Butter Cream Icing, is made of crushed fresh fruit or chocolate, sugar, fresh butter and nothing else!

Your grocer has a supply of Stone's Silver Bar Cakes in these icings. Buy your favorite from him today, and learn this easy and better way to give your family a treat.

RECORD OF RIVERS RAPPED BY FORT

Calhoun, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—Speaking in behalf of the candidacy of Governor L. G. Hardman for reelection, T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus, repeated again his six questions which have been publicly disseminated throughout the campaign. Mr. Hicks, speaking at the Gordon county courthouse today, declared that "we are still waiting to know" the answers to the questions propounded, which have been widely and repeatedly published throughout the press of Georgia.

Mr. Fort declared that these questions, each based on Mr. Rivers' record in the house and senate and relating only to his official acts, had been asked of Mr. Rivers repeatedly for the last two weeks, and up to this time he has made no reply to any one of them.

"The acts we ask about were his official votes as representative and senator," said Mr. Fort. "Doubtless Mr. Rivers had his own reasons for voting as he did. But we would like to know, and the voters would like to know, if he now feels the same way on those questions as he did when he was casting those votes and espousing and opposing certain bills.

"Candidate Rivers is being given generous space in the press of Georgia, and we feel sure that the newspapers will gladly publish his replies to these questions if he will take time from his three-speeches-a-day campaign to answer them."

DAHLONEGA CITY HEADS IMPROVE TOWN, LOWER TAXES

Dahlonega, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—The city managers of Dahlonega have installed water and sewerage works and have funds in sight to lay 2,000 feet more, during the last 15 months. The tax rate last year was $1.45 per $100, the levy just made for this year is $1.40, which includes an increase of 5 mills for high schools. Taxable values have increased $22,000 over last year.

There has not been an idle carpenter or painter here for any length of time during the last 18 months. The first bridge on the Asheville-Atlanta highway, two miles above here, is about completed and active work on the one fourteen miles away is being done, so this cut-off should be open this fall.

The N. G. A. college has just closed its second term of summer school this summer, the two enrolling about 150 teachers working for degrees. The regular term opens September 18 with the prospect good for a full enrollment.

Lawrenceville, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—The city managers of Lawrenceville have installed water and sewerage works and have funds in sight to lay 2,000 feet more, during the last 15 months. The tax rate last year was $1.45 per $100, the levy just made for this year is $1.40, which includes an increase of 5 mills for high schools. TALMADGE CLAIMS ECONOMY RECORD

Canton, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—In an address to citizens of Cherokee and adjacent counties delivered here today Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, asserted that he had saved the taxpayers of Georgia nearly a quarter of a million dollars during the first twelve months he had held office.

To substantiate his statement the commissioner exhibited canceled checks to the audience showing $14,000 he had paid out for indebtedness incurred by the Brown administration. "I have operated the department without debt of any kind," the speaker said. "When you take debts of $14,000, you have a total of $31,587.00 which has been saved the taxpayers of Georgia by my administration. This taken over a period of twelve months will show a saving of approximately $62,000 while still operating two newly created departments. If you will add the two items, $62,000 and $17,000, saved on gas and oil inspection, you can readily see the saving of nearly a quarter of a million dollars in twelve months."

"This strict economy has not impaired the service of the agricultural department," Talmadge stated. He reviewed the work of the fertilizer department, declaring that 13,000 samples had been taken and 11,000 returned to the farmer showing him the true analysis of his guano in understandable terms.

"Heretofore the farmer, except in a very few cases, has been misled," he said. "It has been my practice in each and every case to write on the analysis sheet, whether or not the farmer was entitled to a penalty and if the guano was 'within the law.' This policy will be continued regardless of how much the fertilizer trusts object."

Talmadge stated the bureau of markets had completed records of sales amounting to $1,537,441.37 through that department. The pure food department showed a registration of commercial feeds of 2,240 and a total inspection of foods and feeds of 12,901. The drug department showed total general inspection of 4,947 and drug store inspections of 1,734 and irregularities and violations of the sum of 705.

After speaking here Mr. Talmadge left for Ellijay, where he delivered an address during the afternoon.

BUFORD SCHOOLS TO BEGIN AUTUMN TERM ON MONDAY

Buford, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—The Buford public schools will open the 1928 term Monday. Arrangements have been completed by Professor W. N. Harris, superintendent, for the largest enrollment the school has had in years. The domestic science department received complete new equipment and a large number of new desks have been added to the rooms to care for the expected increased enrollment. The faculty this year will consist of athletic coaches for both the boys and the girls and with the material that will be available it is expected that Buford High school will turn out a number of splendid teams, although football will not be among the athletics undertaken this year.

DEPUTIES CHARGED WITH MAN'S DEATH

Macon, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—Warrants charging three Bibb county deputies with murder were issued late today, as a result of the killing of Carl James last Sunday after James shot two other men.

The deputies, W. R. Mosley, Luther J. Stevens and Oscar Harris, the latter having fired the shot, are to be given a commitment hearing tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the municipal court.

The affidavits under which the warrants were issued were sworn to by Mrs. Carl James, widow of the slain man.

A coroner's jury investigating the case last Monday exonerated the officers.

The three deputies were called to Stratton station, just outside the city, for Ed Rivers, candidate for governor. Mr. Upshaw will make an address while one of Senator Rivers' friends will speak in behalf of his candidacy. Several other candidates for state and county offices have indicated that they will attend.

Manila, August 30.—(Special.)—Governor General Stimson today issued an executive order creating a council of state "to advise the governor general on such matters of public policy as he may from time to time lay before it."

The action was a step in a program to effect cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the insular government. Coincidental with the order Stimson issued a statement saying the council would be "purely an advisory body."

It will thus afford no opportunity for on branch of the government to entrench upon or usurp the functions of the other.

GERMAN COMMERCE ATTACHE TO VISIT CITY NEXT WEEK

Helmuth Westphal, of Berlin, attaché of the department of commerce of the German republic, will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday or Wednesday on a tour of the United States, it was announced Thursday by Harry O. Mitchell, branch manager of the federal department of commerce.

Mr. Westphal is touring this country to obtain a composite picture of the commercial and industrial activities, Mr. Mitchell said. The German attaché is a personal friend of Dr. Rolf Jaeger, German consul here, and will be entertained by Dr. R. Jaeger during his visit. Mr. Westphal and Dr. Jaeger toured the West Indies together.

RIVERS ASSAILS 18,000 Families Change Abode

40,000 ATLANTANS MOVE, MOSTLY FOR THE BETTER

In Greatest Moving Season

Warrenton, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—Continuing his whirlwind campaign of three weeks in this city, Senator E. D. Rivers, candidate for governor, today in addresses here, at the "personal animosity" existing between Governor Hardman and Chairman John N. Holder, of the highway board, was being utilized by the chief executive to "play politics" in the present political race.

"Governor Hardman and his neighbor, John N. Holder," Mr. Rivers declared, "are at it again. About January 1 it was thought that this long-standing row between these two neighbors had been settled, for it was freely whispered over the state that Hardman and Holder had gotten together. But with the intense personal animosity, their long-standing political and neighborhood feud flares forth again. Forgetting his own official position and responsibility, Governor Hardman in the public press of last Sunday said:

"As citizens and taxpayers of Georgia you are entitled to know the facts as to the shocking, disgraceful and alarming waste of your money through the political machine known as the state highway department."

Information Available.

"This charge cuts deeper than politics. If true the highway commissioners, John N. Holder, John R. Phillips and Stanley S. B. Bowers, are guilty of malfeasance in office and subject to civil suit and criminal prosecution."

"Whether these charges are true or not I do not know. If true, the statement of Governor Hardman is a confession which convicts him of conspiracy with the highway department in wasting the money of the taxpayers and citizens of Georgia and subjects him to the same action for malfeasance in office."

"Every dollar of money spent by the highway department comes out of the state treasury upon a warrant signed by the governor, accompanied by a bill of particulars."

"Every lawyer in Georgia knows that the governor holds the authority and is vested with the control of the expenditures of the highway department, and if his charges are true, that he should have taken steps to prevent the people's money from being simply refused to sign the warrants."

"Why did Governor Hardman continue to sign warrants of the highway department for expenditures which he now says are shocking, disgraceful and alarming?"

"Could it have been that the whispered report that swept over the state that Hardman and Holder had 'gotten together' was the real reason why the governor continued to sign all vouchers of the highway department? I believe that the real reason is so horrible at the present time because he has been so busy playing politics from January to July, instead of honestly performing his duties as governor of the state."

Jefferson County Politics Grow Warm

Louisville, Ga., August 30.—The local political race is taking on keen interest and the lines are growing faint as the date of the primary draws near. The representatives in Jefferson county are the major interest as they are the two representatives from this county under the 1920 census. The representatives in the last house are asking for reelection and are being opposed by these are R. V. Harris and K. M. England. John P. Rabun is opposing Mr. Harris and T. E. Harris is seeking the place held by Mr. England.

Mr. Harris, who has been very prominent in the house, where he has served for the past several years, is making a determined fight for reelection. He is campaign manager for E. D. Rivers, candidate for governor, and a very close friend of Mr. Rivers. Mr. Harris announces that he will be here from the Rivers headquarters on Saturday, September 1, when he will make four speeches in the county in his own behalf and at the same time touch on the gubernatorial race in behalf of Rivers. Mr. Harris Saturday will speak at Averett at 11 o'clock; at Bartow at 3 o'clock p. m.; at Wadley at 4 o'clock and at Wrens at 5:30 o'clock.

SMITH INDORSED AT LABOR SESSION

Rochester, N. Y., August 30.—(AP) In a stormy session the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the presidency was indorsed today by the sixty-fifth annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor.

Cat calls, jeers and howls from the Smith men drowned out the efforts of the handful of dissenters to be heard and they gave the floor to the brief and fiery speech of the proponents of the resolution.

The resolution was declared carried by acclamation and a request for a roll call was overruled by President John Sullivan who said the vote had been "too overwhelming."

The demand of two delegates, one from Rochester and another from New York, that their votes be recorded as opposed to the resolution was the signal for another outburst of cat calls and howls.

Resolution indorsing the Kellogg plan for world peace; a campaign for state-wide unionization of school teachers and professors, and the nomination of United States Senator Copeland for another term were also adopted.

G. G. ADAMS PRAISED BY ATLANTA LAWYER

G. G. Adams, of Newton county, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, is a good, clean, able man, who is unusual in his executive ability with a wide knowledge of farming acquired during a lifetime as a red-dirt farmer, according to Luke S. Arnold, Atlanta lawyer, in a speech made at the regular weekly meeting of the City club, held Thursday at the Nell Rose tea room.

Mr. Arnold spoke for Mr. Adams at the invitation of the City club. An invitation was extended to Eugene Talmadge, candidate for reelection as commissioner of agriculture, to speak before the club at its meeting next Thursday.

"If the people of Georgia elect Mr. Adams as their commissioner of agriculture they will have a man at the head of this important state department who will make good beyond doubt," Mr. Arnold said. "Mr. Adams is a red-dirt farmer, was reared on a farm and now operates an 800-acre farm in Newton county. If any person doubts his success as a farmer they need only go to Newton county and look at his farm."

"Although he did not obtain a college education, Mr. Adams sent his brother to college at Peabody school and later this brother taught Mr. Adams Latin, Greek, geometry and other studies. Later, Mr. Adams served as superintendent of schools of Newton county for 15 years. He was the originator of the first boys' corn club in the state and was the first man to advocate transportation of farmer's children to rural schools in busses. He was president of the agricultural college at Monroe for five years and possesses the ability to teach farming as well as to administer the executive duties of the office of commissioner of agriculture."

Mr. Arnold said Commissioner Talmadge is "claiming credit" for the cutting down of oil inspectors from 200 to six.

"As a matter of fact the state legislature of Georgia passed the bill cutting down the inspectors and the members were not willing to trust the department to remain in the department of agriculture and transferred it to the comptroller general's department, although Commissioner Talmadge lobbied against this move and appeared on the floor of the house of representatives to work against the passage of the bill which was passed by a huge majority over his opposition."

L. E. Montgomery, president of the City club, presided at the session.

Appearing before Recorder A. W. Callaway Thursday morning charged with killing Hoke David in a downtown hotel early on Wednesday morning, J. E. McGee, of Miami, Fla., was exonerated by the court on grounds of self-defense.

The decision was rendered by the court in spite of attempts of police to establish the fact that shots from some gun other than that of McGee were fired in the altercation in the hotel room. McGee stated that he fired but twice and officers testified that McGee's gun was found with but two empty chambers. Recorder Callaway ruled that the fact that the slain body contained three gunshot wounds had no bearing on the defense plea made by McGee.

McGee's account of David's fatal shooting was corroborated by J. F. Fitzpatrick, Emmet Marks and H. Vaughn, who were in McGee's room when David entered. All except Vaughn had been held by police since the shooting and were released after the hearing.

McGee stated that he was in his room late Tuesday night preparing to retire when he was called on the phone by Fitzpatrick, who asked if he might come to the room. A few minutes later Fitzpatrick entered the room, accompanied by Marks and Vaughn.

As the four were sitting about the room David entered abruptly and suggested a dice game. His offer was refused and he then left the room. According to McGee's testimony, David returned in a few minutes, drew a knife, rushed for McGee, slashed him on the hand and seemed intent on carrying his attack further. McGee said that he then fell back on the bed and, drawing his gun, shot twice at David. According to McGee but one shot took effect on his assailant, the other going wild into the ceiling.

ADVENTISTS SPEND $36,000,000 YEARLY ON MISSION WORK

Four new missionaries to foreign fields is the weekly average of Seventh-day Adventists in their worldwide missionary endeavor, according to W. W. Eastman, secretary of the publishing department of the general conference of Seventh-day Adventists, who spoke at the annual Georgia conference and camp meeting Thursday night.

"Seventh-day Adventists were organized as a denomination in 1864, and sent abroad their first foreign missionary in 1874," said Secretary Eastman. "Today they maintain missionary work in 126 countries, 258 languages, and add more than 200 new missionaries to their foreign forces every year. Since their beginning their membership has doubled every ten years and today 25,000 new converts are baptized annually. A new church of 70 members, raised up every 24 hours, is the average. In order to do this they spend more than $4,000,000 on foreign missions alone, maintain and operate 56 publishing houses and branches, to circulate their literature in 131 languages."

Only three days are left before Atlanta's annual Labor day celebration will be held. Oscar Mills, secretary of the Georgia Southern fair, announced Thursday night that extensive preparations are being made to hold an elaborate program at Lakewood.

No expense will be spared in preparing for the program, which will include automobile and motorcycle racing in the afternoon, and a big fireworks display at night.

Gates to the park will be thrown wide to the public both afternoon and night with no admission charged. A nominal charge will be made for admission to the races in the afternoon and a percentage of the grandstand receipts will be given to the Masonic Orphans' home in Macon.

The fireworks display will be free to the public and immediately after the races are over the grandstand gates will be free to spectators. The fireworks will be exhibited at 7:30 o'clock across the lake from the grandstand in clear view of everyone. A corps of workmen have already started work on the fireworks design.

In addition to the big race and fireworks program there will be many other features at Lakewood during the afternoon and night, including the annual Southeastern fair, which will continue to run full force every day and night until the close of the annual Southeastern fair during the first week in October.

2 INJURED PUGILISTS TREATED AT GRADY

Ernest "Battling" Maddox, local pugilist, reported to Grady hospital shortly after a bout Wednesday night with a cash in his tongue sustained in the fighting. Doctors were forced to take eight stitches to close the wound.

C. A. Rogers, another boxer appearing on the same card with Maddox, also reported to the hospital where he had four stitches taken in a gash over his eye.

LABOR DAY PROGRAM PLANNED AT LAKEWOOD

Only three days are left before Atlanta's annual Labor day celebration will be held. Oscar Mills, secretary of the Georgia Southern fair, announced Thursday night that extensive preparations are being made to hold an elaborate program at Lakewood.

No expense will be spared in preparing for the program, which will include automobile and motorcycle racing in the afternoon, and a big fireworks display at night.

CHINESE ABANDON IDOLS FOR POSTERS ON MODERN TOPICS

Chengchow, China, August 30.—(AP) In place of idols in the temple of Honan province there are now posters about hygiene and economics. The idols have been destroyed by the government and the temples converted into libraries and museums.

There is an old story told about the Store Keeper who hung a sign over his store reading:

"I AM THE ONLY HONEST MERCHANT IN TOWN—EVERYTHING BELOW COST!"

No STORE can constantly sell without profit! No STORE can constantly misrepresent without ultimate loss!

An honest "Special Sale" of desirable merchandise at VERY MUCH LESS than the regular price is a rare occurrence. Too often, Special Sales claiming tremendous savings, offer merchandise which is no longer in demand, or not the right color, or style, or the merchandise is not first quality.

DAVISON-PAXON COMPANY SELLS NO SECONDS, or imperfect merchandise of any kind, except in our Lower Priced Basement—and they are always so advertised and marked.

We buy our merchandise at the lowest prices, using our affiliation with MACY'S tremendous purchasing power for the advantage of our customers, adding only a reasonable, required margin of profit. In a majority of cases, this results in the LOWEST PRICES IN THE CITY. Sometimes our prices are the same. Our prices may NEVER BE HIGHER THAN ANYWHERE ELSE. Other stores have Special Sales from day to day. We MEET everyone of these SPECIAL SALE PRICES, no matter how much it may cost us in order to live up to our policy. This in addition to our own special sales events.

We believe that this progressive, constructive policy will continue to gain the confidence and attract the patronage of the largest number of the people of Atlanta, and we will adhere steadfastly to this policy, advertising conservatively and truthfully, striving to make PERMANENT FRIENDS out of our customers, rather than TEMPORARY ENTHUSIASTS over a single doubtful item, or event, to our later disadvantage.

DAVISON-PAXON COMPANY is not in Atlanta as a temporary visitor in a boarding house, who can move on a moment's notice, but is here as a permanent institution, deliberately and wisely planning to build good will by fair dealing; building on the rocks rather than on the sand!

Come and visit the store and learn about the advantages it offers. You will not be urged to buy, because we know that sooner or later, if you visit the store, you will come again, and if you come again, you will buy!

Hardman Terms 'Useless' Extra Legislative Session To Probe Highway 'Waste'

Says Investigation of Extravagance Would Bring Together Same Opposing "Machine."

Governor L. G. Hardman will not call the legislature together in extra session to investigate "waste and extravagance" in the state highway department, because such a session would bring together the same men, headed by State Senator Rivers, who opposed the governor's fight for reorganization of the highway department two years ago and would prove to be a useless expense to the state, according to the governor in a letter written Thursday to J. Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville.

Mr. Ennis, after reading a copy of Governor Hardman's charges concerning the highway department, printed in newspapers last Sunday, wrote the governor and suggested that in view of his charges against the highway department the governor should call an extra session of the legislature for an investigation and remedy.

During the last session of the legislature "a well-oiled political machine" headed by State Senator Rivers fought every move I made to revise our system of state road construction," according to the governor, who stated that this machine "blocked" him at every turn.

"If an extra session was called it could not be otherwise than a travesty and it could only be held at an expense greater than the state can afford to pay, especially when it would be assured in advance that nothing would be done," the governor said.

The governor in his letter reiterates charges of extravagance and inefficiency against the highway board. He also reviews his charges that the department is using at the state's expense automobiles for its desk employees, declaring that the Georgia department, without one single cross-state highway completed, uses more automobiles than does the highway department of North Carolina, which has completed more than 5,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads.

"I would unhesitatingly call the general assembly into an extra session to meet this emergency if I did not know in advance that the state highway board is in absolute control of the present senate and that, through the influence of patronage, it would thwart any effort at relief," the governor said.

The letter of the governor to Captain Ennis is as follows:

The Capitol, Atlanta, Ga., August 29, 1928.

Hon. J. Howard Ennis, Milledgeville, Ga.

My Dear Capt. Ennis:

I have your letter of recent date relating to my exposure of the waste and the extravagance of the state highway department, as shown from the official figures of State Auditor Ennis.

In your letter you take the position that if the state highway department has involved the state debt $30,000,000 or more in addition to the small bonded indebtedness of the state, I should call the legislature together in extra session for the purpose of remedying "the greatest peril ever confronting us."

I quite agree with you as to the peril involved in the reckless and wanton disregard of every economic principle of business by the state highway department, and if by popular indictment of the present regime and the existing system of highway construction it is continued, our beloved state will soon find itself in a position similar to that of reconstruction days in which it was confronted with a debt of incalculable proportions, from which relief was obtained only through repudiation which was justified by the fact that the money obtained from fraudulent bond sales was never put to the service of the state.

Realizing the situation upon my inauguration as governor and seeing that it was growing worse from day to day, I endeavored to seek a remedy through the legislature.

A well-oiled political machine headed by my opponent for governor in the present contest, Senator Rivers, fought every move I made to revise our system of state road construction and to put it on an up-to-date basis. Since all appointments made by me were subject to the confirmation of the senate, it was a weary matter for the state highway board to obtain control of the senate by a liberal distribution of patronage. I was blocked at every turn by senators who seemed to have no other interest than to obtain patronage for themselves.

If I should call the general assembly together now, I would be confronted with a senate which would state as met last summer, that Senator Rivers himself leading the opposition then and he still being a member of the senate would, of course, like the same attitude now as he did then. There were many loyal members of the state highway board who were strongly supported me in the effort to inaugurate a new system of highway construction which would guarantee the state a system of cross-state highways, north and south, east and west, so constructed as to be within easy reach of every county in the state. But they were helpless against the majority which was controlled by state highway patronage.

Now, I ask you, my dear sir, what would be the benefit of my calling the general assembly together in an extra session now to meet, as you say, the dire peril confronting the state, when no possible hope can be expected from the senate which is controlled now as it was then, by the sordid and miserable influence of state highway board patronage?

If an extra session was called it could not be otherwise than a travesty and it could be held only at an expense greater than the state can afford to pay, especially when it is assured in advance that nothing would be done.

There is but one way that relief can be obtained and that is through the people themselves. They have this opportunity in the primary of September 12th not only in the nomination of a governor, but the members of both houses of the general assembly.

It will interest you to know that since the startling official figures of State Auditor Ennis were given to the public concerning the state highway expenditures for the first six months of this year, I have been literally overwhelmed with letters from every part of the state expressing, as you do, not only amazement but consternation at the situation. Permit me to call your attention to the fact that not a single figure I gave was my own. I simply reproduced figure for figure the official report as made to me by State Auditor Ennis, and he certainly could not have been moved by any favoritism for me for I did not reapportion him upon expiration of his term. I knew him to be a fair and just man, however, and that he would not permit his political difference with me to misrepresent the situation. So early in the present month I asked him officially for the figures as given me officially.

Let me briefly review these official figures of the state auditor showing just where the state stands today, and where it is being plunged headlong to destruction by the waste and extravagance of the state highway department.

Until a few years ago the state has been priding itself upon the fact that its entire bonded indebtedness was less than $5,000,000 as against which its assets in the Western & Atlantic railroad and in real estate and buildings, valued at approximately $30,000,000, gave the state a credit balance of at least $25,000,000.

What is the situation today?

It is shown by the official figures of the state auditor.

The state's total bonded indebtedness is less than $5,000,000 and it is being reduced so rapidly that this bonded indebtedness will soon be wiped out.

The state auditor's report is that as of December 31, 1927, the total indebtedness of the state highway board was $30,831,591.31. Mind you, these were the figures of more than six months ago at which time the figures showed that there was then pledged by the state highway department to the counties of the state for road construction $1,462,849.95 to which is to be added $21,093,172.78 as indebtedness long past due by the state highway board to the various counties of the state which were induced to make large expenditures by a solemn reimbursement contract made by the state through its highway department.

In addition to the above, as of December 31, 1927, incumbrances on incomes of the counties on outstanding contracts with the highway board amounted to $9,168,418.53.

These three items as above enumerated aggregate the startling total of $39,831,591.31—more than enough to absolutely wipe out every dollar of the state's credit book balance of a few years ago, comparing assets with liabilities.

Thus you see that a total credit balance of more than $25,000,000 has been turned into a debit balance!

And for what?

"What have we to show for it?"

Not a single cross-state highway has been completed and with the exception of the few coastal counties near the Savannah river, the state highway built by their own bonding resources, it is utterly impossible in wet weather to cross the state of Georgia in any direction without being bogged in the mud.

In the recent rainy spell I am informed that more than a thousand cars were hung up in Macon within a week's time.

Highway conditions through the state are intolerable in wet weather, through which imperfectly constructed highways are being washed away and in dry weather they are being blown away in dust.

To what purpose has this vast amount of the people's money been used?

The official figures of the state auditor show that for the first six months of this year the oil and repair expenses of the state highway department were $67,205.05—a startling expenditure of more than $124,000 a year without taking into consideration the fabulous investment of the highway department in automobiles or the depreciation charges against them.

The state auditor shows that this department is now operating 235 automobiles, many of them the highest and most expensive class. Auditors, design engineers, cashiers, clerks, shop foremen and clerical help are being furnished free cars and operating expenses by the state highway department. Rodmen and transit engineers are working in groups, and who should go to and from their work together, are being furnished individual cars, at the expense of the state.

I am informed that with far less to show for it the Georgia state highway department with not a cross-road in the state operates twice as many cars at the expense of the state as does the North Carolina state highway board, with more than 5,000 miles of completed hard-surfaced highways covering the state like a network and more than doubling the value of all farm lands in the state.

Now to where is all this leading?

I would unhesitatingly call the general assembly into an extra session to meet this emergency if I did not know in advance that the state highway board is in absolute control of the present senate, and, through the influence of patronage it would thwart any effort at relief.

A powerful giant, the state at present, is bound hand and foot by the Prongue Lilliputians of the senate. We are dancing over its prostrate body, with Senator Rivers as their jack-in-the-box.

The office of governor means very little to me excepting in so far as it affords me an opportunity to serve my state.

If a people of this state wish this carnage of mad waste and extravagance to go on, it is up to them to say so.

I can and if they can.

But I am it my duty to let them know the facts and to fight as best I can to keep the state on a safe and sane basis.

The issues are clean cut and clear. Do we want to operate the state highway department on a safe and sane business basis with the state and not the county as the unit, letting the rich state help poor counties, thus guaranteeing a few of through state highways in every direction?

Or do we wish to continue to administer the highway department on a basis of patronage inefficiency, with some counties paid and the others not, and with not a single through highway in the state notwithstanding the fact that more than $100,000,000 has already been expended in direct payment, or in indebtedness for which the state has a show a highway system that is disgrace and a reproach and which, operated upon a continuation of the present system, will bankrupt the state.

Permit me to conclude, my dear Captain Ennis, to thank you for your letter.

I hope I have made it clear to you why I do not think it wise to put the state to the expense of an extra session, which, if called, could accomplish nothing.

With warm personal regards I am, Very truly yours,
L. G. HARDMAN,
Executive Dept., the Capitol.

DEMOCRATIC GROUP ORGANIZES IN BROOKS

Report of the organization of an enthusiastic democratic club in Brooks county to support Governor Al Smith and the democratic ticket and the appointment of three new chairmen of county-wide women's democratic clubs, were outstanding developments at the state democratic campaign headquarters Thursday.

News of the organization of the Brooks county club was received at the office of John R. Slater, state campaign manager, while the announcement of the appointment of the three chairmen was made by Mrs. Edgar Alexander, chairman of the woman's division of the national campaign in Georgia.

The Brooks county club was organized at a mass meeting, and the following officers were elected: Chairman, W. F. Cobb, vice chairman, H. H. Knight and N. J. Rutledge; secretary, W. M. English.

Chairman Cobb wrote Manager Slater as follows: "There is nothing to fear in Brooks county, as she will go solidly for Smith and Robinson; but we are eager to pile up as big a majority as is possible."

The three new chairmen of the County-wide Women's Clubs, all of whom are outstanding women leaders in their counties, are Gordon county, Mrs. Edna F. Tate, Fairmount, Ga.; Dougherty county, Mrs. George A. McArthur, Albany, Ga.; Mitchell county, Mrs. W. S. Twitty, Sr., Pelham, Ga.

TWO MOTORCADES TO VISIT ATLANTA

Plans for two large motorcades, to move upon Atlanta early in October from Washington and from Memphis, are now being completed by the Bankhead National Highway association. The two motor caravans, made up of more than 500 cars, will arrive in Atlanta October 9 for the twelfth annual convention of the Bankhead association, according to J. A. Rountree, general director of the association.

The plan is to have one party of more than 250 automobiles start from Washington and proceed to Atlanta through Virginia, North and South Carolina and thence eastward to this city. The other motorcade will start at Memphis and proceed to Atlanta by the circuitous route through Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

According to Mr. Rountree plans for the convention are nearly complete and indications are that it will be one of the most successful ever held by the association.

The convention will be called to order on the morning of October 9 by President E. L. Kirkpatrick. Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale will welcome the delegates on behalf of the chamber of commerce and J. H. Holloman, vice president of the Bankhead National Highway association, will give the welcome for members of that organization in Atlanta.

ATLANTA SOCIETY OF ASTRONOMERS TO MEET SATURDAY

The Atlanta Astronomical society will hold its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock Saturday night on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce building. Plans for the coming winter's activities will be discussed. It has been proposed to bring at least two of the four most prominent astronomers in the country to Atlanta for lectures. The meeting will be open to visitors and all those interested in astronomy will be welcomed.

SUMMERVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Summerville, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—E. G. Vinson, superintendent of the public schools will open the 1928-29 session Monday. Improvements have been made on the buildings and equipment and a strong faculty has been elected. Every teacher in the high school holds a bachelor's degree from a standard college and the grammar school teachers hold degrees, normal certificates or have done college work equivalent to a normal certificate.

In view of the rapid growth made by the school it is particularly requested by the authorities that registrations be made early.

While the new school building is under construction classes will be held in the building used in other years. The new structure is to cost a quarter of a million dollars and will be one of the finest school plants in the state.

ROAD MEN WORK FOR RIVERS, CLAIM

Charges that employees of the state highway department are actively supporting the candidacy of State Senator E. D. Rivers in the race for governor were made Thursday in a statement issued by the campaign headquarters of Governor L. G. Hardman, candidate for reelection.

It is charged that these employees are distributing Rivers campaign literature and are tacking Rivers posters on poles and fences in various parts of the state. It is charged further that they are doing this work for Rivers in automobiles owned by the state and operated at the state's expense.

"From all sections of Georgia we are getting protests from indignant citizens about the activities of state highway department employees in the interest of Candidate E. D. Rivers."

"Division engineers, maintenance men, surveyors, inspectors in many sections of the state, instead of devoting their attention to the roads, are devoting their attention to the Rivers campaign."

"They are distributing Rivers campaign literature, tacking Rivers posters on poles, trees and fence posts, and circulating Rivers propaganda by word of mouth. Many of them have their automobiles flamboyantly decorated with Rivers placards and pictures."

"Their holdness in converting a highway field organization into a political field organization is the harbinger of disaster. Success for their candidate is absolutely essential to the perpetuation of their machine. Defeat for their candidate inevitably will result in the destruction of their machine."

BUZZARD AND AUTO IN ROADWAY TILT; CAR IS DAMAGED

Waycross, Ga., August 30.—Ernest Spicer, well-known railroad man of Tampa, Fla., formerly of Waycross, had an unusual experience when a buzzard flew into his car on the Jacksonville-Waycross highway, a near wreck resulting. The bird crashed into the windshield, breaking the glass and swerving the car into side of the road where one of the tires was blown out.

TATUM IMPROVING; REMOVED TO HOME

J. Henson Tatum, secretary to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Thursday was recuperating at his home, 262 Murray Hill avenue, N. E., from the effects of an illness which confined him to the Henry Grady hospital for the last week. Mr. Tatum was removed to his home Wednesday. He expects to be at his desk at city hall within a few days.

ROBINSON'S PLATFORM ADEQUATE FOR FARMERS' ACCEPTANCE

ARKANSAS URGES NEED OF HONEST GOVERNMENT

Amplifies Views of Smith On Three Important Issues of Campaign; Wants Merchant Marine

hand, he occasionally leaned forward as he concluded a statement, gesturing with his left hand.

His declaration that the time has come "when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions" of farmers was received with applause, the cheers echoing and re-echoing through the valley between the towering ranges of the Ozark mountains.

Turning to the prohibition issue, Mr. Robinson also received applause when he quoted a part of the party platform approved by the Houston convention attacking the republican party on prohibition.

The senator was interrupted by applause when he quoted in part the telegram sent the convention by Governor Smith the day after his nomination, declaring that "if it is the will of the people of this nation that I am to take an oath as president of the United States to protect and defend our constitution and laws, I will execute that oath to the limit of my ability without reservation or evasion."

"Can it be said," the senator went on, "that because Governor Smith believes that, without reservation or evasion, he will execute that oath to the limit of his ability, that he is a lawbreaker and a traitor to the people of this nation? Such arguments impeach the intelligence of their authors." As the senator continued with a discussion of the prohibition issue, he again and again was interrupted by applause.

The senator's declaration that William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, who he said, "thwarted the movement to stop Hoover at Kansas City and forced Mr. Hoover's nomination," claimed election to the senate on a platform containing a single plank—the repeal of national prohibition—likewise was applauded.

After prohibition, the senator next took up a discussion of the American merchant marine question.

"An adequate merchant marine is recognized by the democratic party," he said, "as essential to the safety of the nation and the independence of its commerce."

Honesty in Government. From merchant marine the senator passed on to "political corruption."

"Honesty in public affairs is of transcendent importance," he declared, adding that "corruption is the red signal of decadence."

As he proceeded to review the disclosures by senate committees during recent years, the crowd, which by the time the senator started speaking, had grown to somewhere near 12,000 or 15,000 frequently applauded.

The statement that "the democratic party pledges itself to 'rescue the country from those who have betrayed their trust by disgracing it,'" was among other utterances prompting a demonstration.

The senator concluded at 9:25 p. m. (central standard time) or five minutes before the nation-wide radio broadcast went off the air.

This gave time for the benediction by Rabbi A. B. Rhine, of Hot Springs, to go out over the air.

Mr. Robinson started speaking within almost two minutes after Claude G. Bowers, of New York, one of the chairmen in accepting the party, formally had notified him of his selection by the Houston convention as the party's candidate for the vice presidency.

Raskob for Farmers. Bowers hailed Mr. Robinson as "a militant son of Arkansas who has richly earned the admiration and affection of millions of Americans from sea to sea."

"We bid him to go forth to battle for the fundamental principles of the party that are rooted in the tradition of our people," he said.

"Your fellow democrats turned to you, Senator Robinson, because you went on 'because of your seasoned statesmanship, your established leadership, the robust quality of your democracy, the Jeffersonian character of your political concepts and your fine fidelity to American ideals."

And Mr. Robinson, in accepting the honor of the party, concluded with the declaration that the "nomination for vice president is accepted with sincere appreciation of the honor and responsibilities that are associated with it."

The ceremonies then were brought to a close by Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee, who declared that the "warmer" sufferer of the "real" and promised that the democratic party would do all in its power to place agriculture on an equal basis with industry.

Inspiring Spectacle. The quadrennial political contest for which the entire nation is notable presents an inspiring spectacle when conducted in accordance with high standards of ethics. No better evidence can be produced of the soundness of the democratic theory of government than recent disclosures of the right of the people to govern themselves through the selection of official representatives.

Numerous political serpents are hissing in the dark and striking from cover, and with venomous malice seek to poison the thoughts and arouse the prejudice of those who will decide issues of far-reaching importance.

Sound public policy encourages full, frank and fearless discussion of issues and records. It discourages misrepresentation, perversion and falsehood. No end aimed at by an individual or political organization can justify the secret or open employment of corrupt or otherwise dishonorable means. The spokesman of a party has the duty to tell the whole truth, and is justified in urging conclusions which his conscience approves, however distasteful or harmful they may be to the opposition. He proves himself unworthy if he knowingly accepts advantage from the opposition, even though not uttered or inspired by himself.

Fair Campaign. In the hope that frankness, sincerity and fairness govern throughout the campaign, and that they may be tempered by the spirit of charity which constitutes the sublimest attribute of our Christian civilization, the discussion of the measures at issue is entered upon in the belief that the wisest of this voter will correctly and justly decide between the two great parties which present their candidates and platforms.

It will not be practicable in this address to touch upon all of the issues raised. Many subjects of importance necessarily are reserved for comment hereafter.

Perhaps the most important issue in this campaign arises out of the attitude of the major parties toward the problems of agriculture.

Both platforms recognize the distressed condition of the industry and embrace promises of relative relief of which is apparent from a comparison of the two pronouncements.

Republican Pledge. The republican platform on the subject of agriculture is easily distinguishable from that of 1924, pledging the party "to take whatever steps necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

The farm problem had appeared in December of 1921, when President Hoover called the national conference of agriculture, Mr. Wallace, to call a conference. The conference was held in January, 1922, and a resolution adopted calling upon the president and the congress "to take such steps as would immediately reestablish a fair exchange for all farm products with that of all other commodities."

The secretary of agriculture, Mr. Wallace, took the lead in the articulation of a measure which has become widely known as the McNary-Wallace bill. Prior to the national convention of 1924 it was defeated in the house of representatives, and consequently was not considered by the senate.

This was the situation when the promise of 1924 was made by the republican party "to take whatever steps necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

of his party to advance "a constructive program of relief."

G. O. P. Proposals. What are the methods suggested by the nominee for president in his interpretation of the republican platform?

He asserts: "An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief."

Will the farmers of the United States, who have waited eight years for Mr. Hoover and his associates to serve them, accept the tariff as a remedy "for depression in farm products" whose domestic prices are controlled in markets not shielded by the tariff wall? Our farmers usually produce for export large quantities of wheat, corn, cotton and other staple products. Increased tariffs can afford no relief.

The next proposal in Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech is the development of inland waterways.

No political party opposes the improvement of rivers and harbors; but the farmers of the United States are sufficiently reduced by means of waterways to bring them prosperity.

Both platforms recognize the distressed condition of the industry and embrace promises of relative relief of which is apparent from a comparison of the two pronouncements.

of our constitution and laws, I will execute that oath to the limit of my ability without reservation or evasion."

This language is an unqualified acceptance of the obligation to enforce the law to the best of his ability.

Throughout the last two administrations the prohibition bureau has been under the treasury department, whose head, prior to national prohibition, was largely interested in the liquor business.

Mr. Vare, who thwarted the movement to "stop Hoover" at Kansas City and forced Mr. Hoover's nomination, claimed election to the senate on a platform containing a single plank—the repeal of national prohibition.

Belief of Smith. Can it be said that because Governor Smith believes that, without reservation or evasion, he will execute that oath to the limit of his ability, that he is a lawbreaker and a traitor to the people of this nation? Such arguments impeach the intelligence of their authors.

It is certain that only such modifications as meet with the approval of public opinion are possible, no matter who serves as president.

Having a month ago the law for enforcement of prohibition has been discredited because good faith efforts have not been made by its enforcement.

A breakdown is not threatened by mere proposals for modification, but rather by indifference of the enforcement officers. It is recognized that the prohibition bureau does not affect his position or ability to perform that duty.

Democratic Policy. Contrast with this record of feebleness and failure the democratic policy for the improvement of agriculture.

recognition of the necessity for reform.

In the Kansas City platform it is asserted by the republicans:

"We stand for honesty in government, for the appointment of officials whose integrity cannot be questioned."

This principle had been applied by the republican administration it would not have been necessary for the senate to advise the discharge of an attorney general who had flagrantly disregarded the obligations of his office and contributed to the pollution of the fountain of justice. The country would have been spared the spectacle of the executive sustaining this faithless officer until public sentiment compelled resignation, and the dismissal would have been made without an expression of confidence in the faithless officer by the chief executive.

If the reputation of the government had been duly safeguarded, there would have been no necessity for the senate to urge the retirement of the secretary of the navy who had blindly applied the corrupt contract by which the nation's oil reserves were bartered to private interests through the bribery of a fellow cabinet officer, the secretary of the interior. Surely it is of greater consequence that a national administration shall stand by retaining the corrupt contract than that the feelings of such officers should be spared by retaining them in authority after their misconduct has been disclosed.

Breaches of Trust. Breaches of trust in the veterans' bureau and in the alien property custodian office; the secret extraction of enormous campaign funds from despoilers of the public domain, and the widespread sale of land and timber by patronage dispensers disclose conditions which should have been corrected long ago and which are a disgrace to the nation.

SMITH KEEPS EYE ON STATE RACES

BY PAUL F. HAUPERT.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Syracuse, N. Y., August 30.—(AP)—Governor Smith not only is aiming for the presidency but he is determined that the democrats shall retain control of the legislative branch of the New York state government.

He made this known today in a speech before the democratic state committee which met here to organize and prepare for the campaign. Soundings a call to arms, he declared it was vital to get out the vote and not to permit the state campaign to become absorbed in the movement to put him in the white house.

Speaking at the outset of a morning meeting, the governor left it to the committee to perfect its own organization and hurried out to the state fair grounds to inspect the exhibits and take in the races. There and along the streets he received a noisy welcome, police and state troopers having their hands full clearing a way for him.

A bit fagged out by his strenuous day, which included two brief addresses at the fair grounds, the democratic presidential nominee left early in the evening by train for Albany. He plans to remain there over the Labor day week-end and probably until he sets out on his campaign tour.

Reviews Own Record.

The speech of the governor at the state committee meeting presided over by that group of M. William Bray, of Utica, as chairman. He succeeds Lieutenant Governor Corning, who resigned because of ill health. Urging the committee to get "actively on the job," Governor Smith added: "Everybody that comes within the circle of our influence should be reached to the end that they are registered and be eligible to vote."

"I have been ably supported by the democrats in both branches of the legislature, under able, capable and fearless leadership in being able to make a record for the party in the administration of the affairs of this state that has never been heretofore even matched and I say that with humility."

"When I leave the office of governor on the thirty-first of December, from a business standpoint, from a standpoint of service to industry, to agriculture, to labor and humanity generally, I will leave the state in better condition than it has been during any part of the 25 years I have been identified with state politics. It is an efficient, well ordered and properly working governmental machine."

Turning on the republicans, Governor Smith declared that if he sensed right "the temper and the attitude of the people of the state I am perfectly satisfied that they are entirely unwilling to make any change in the political complexion of the government of this state."

"They want the friends and not the enemies of this great state to see them through to the finish," he went on. "Much has been done. Much more remains to be done, and the people of the state are in no humor to turn the reins of government over to the party that for the last ten years has persistently, in season and out of season, stood as solidly as they could, in the face of overwhelming popular opinion, against the things that are commended not only by the democrats, but by the best minds and the wisest leaders of the republican party."

BOY FOOLS OFFICERS, THEN GIVES SELF UP

Jacksonville, Fla., August 30.—(AP)—A youngster who outsmarted officers who sought to arrest him on a charge of housebreaking, was in jail here tonight, a victim of his own conscience. When he was heard by a householder the boy, who gave his name as George E. Smith, 19, no address, made a noise like a couple of cats fighting, and the householder went back to sleep, but he had to drop a watch and that woke a victim for fair, who screamed for police.

The boy hid under a house while officers searched for him, and then when he heard some shooting in the neighborhood he turned himself in, declaring that he was the housebreaker and he did not want anyone else to suffer for his doings. Smith said he had robbed many residences in the vicinity where he was almost caught, and that he had been in jail all over the country.

HOOVER CONSIDERS SPEAKING CAMPAIGN

Washington, August 30.—(AP)—Continuing his examination of the interior of the republican party machine, Herbert Hoover today went over the preliminary plans for the speaking campaign and then turned to study the situation in New York state.

Representative Walter F. Newton, chairman of the national speakers' bureau, went over with the candidate the plans that thus far have been worked out for a wave of oratory with which the republicans plan to lash the country as far west as the Rockies.

Then over, the candidate conferred with William H. Hill, chairman of the New York Hoover-Curtis committee, and H. Ermond Machold, New York state chairman, who consulted with him regarding the conduct of the campaign in that state. Although they brought him a prediction that he would carry that state, they recognized the seriousness of the prohibition fight in New York and admitted when they left that they had not yet determined just how they would meet the problem presented to them there.

"Probably there is no place in the United States where prohibition will enter the campaign more acutely than in New York city," Machold said.

To Speak in New York.

After laying their plans before the candidate, and discussing the general situation with him, the two New Yorkers went over with him plans for his appearance in the home town of his democratic opponent for a speech. The definite speaking program of the nominee has not yet been worked out, however. While he talked over the preliminary plans for the general speaking program with Newton, the two did not go into the details of Hoover's personal activities.

Senator Charles Curtis, his teammate on the republican ticket, and Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, will be the central figures in the drive for votes that will be started in the west within two weeks under the present plans. Curtis will fire the opening gun of the western push in Lexington, Ky., on September 15 and after that will journey into the farm states west of the Mississippi. He will be busy during the next two weeks in Maine and Massachusetts.

Borah will open his speaking activities in Detroit on September 19 and afterwards will move through the midwest and the east. Later in the campaign, these two will be joined on the speaking platform by Vice President Charles G. Dawes, and a group of cabinet officers and other leading republicans of the senate and the house.

Among those being mobilized for the pre-election drive there are Senators Curtis and James E. Watson, of Indiana, Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts; Bird Vincent, of Michigan; Louis Monast, of Rhode Island; Joseph Hooper, of Michigan, and Fletcher Hale, of New Hampshire.

Among the other visitors to the personal headquarters of the candidate today was R. H. Angell, of Roanoke, Va., chairman of the republican committee in that state, who reported that a growing sentiment for Hoover was being reflected by the business men of his section.

REPORTED "MISSING" GIRL RETURNS HOME

Reported to the police as missing Wednesday morning, Harriette Anderson, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. T. J. Anderson, was at her home at 1008 State street Thursday morning when Constitution reporters went to the home. She stated that she had been home since Wednesday afternoon.

She made no statement concerning her unannounced departure from home early Wednesday morning, which led her mother to appeal to police to aid in finding her. Police late Thursday night said that they had received no notice of the fact that the girl had returned.

RADIO SHOW STAGE ARTISTS ANNOUNCED

The official roster of stars to appear in the nightly stage review, which will close each day's exhibition at the Atlanta radio-electrical exposition at the auditorium week after next, was announced Thursday from headquarters at the Ansley hotel in conjunction with the announcement that important developments will be published Sunday.

Outstanding among the attractions which will be presented against the gorgeous background of a blue and gold, iridescent studio, will be Miss Louise Gantier, blues singer extraordinary from Jacksonville, Fla., who was engaged immediately after she registered an instantaneous sensation on her debut at WSB this week. Miss Gantier possesses a rare quality of magnetism and appeal and her first personal public appearance in Atlanta is likely to prove a step up the ladder toward national fame.

Exposition officials have been so deeply impressed with the remarkable success of the Capitol theater's radio review this week, which has smashed all box office records for the house, since it opened last Monday, that several attractions on the bill have been retained for the exposition entertainment.

Among the favorites will be tiny Tootsie Dunbar, the captivating child dancer; Paul and John, the famous disciples of harmony; and the Daniel Hornsby Lion's Den Trio, Columbia record novelty harmonists. Lambdin Key again will be master of ceremonies.

The girls contest for advance sale of tickets has reached an acute stage of spirited competition. The candidates will report again Friday night on the eve of the final week in the race for the $300 cash prizes.

WILLIAM D. HARRIS, AGED VETERAN, DIES

William D. Harris, 84-year-old Confederate veteran and a citizen of Atlanta for more than two score years, died suddenly late Wednesday afternoon at Miona Springs, a resort near Montezuma.

Death came as the result of a heart attack said to have been suffered shortly after he had been in swimming at the health resort. He was active in the employ of the Southern railroad until a few years before his death. For the past few months he had been in failing health and had gone to Miona Springs for a rest.

Mr. Harris was a native of DeKalb county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harris. He served through the war in company F, 38th Georgia regiment, Cummings brigade. Since the close of the conflict he has been active in the work of the United Confederate Veterans and held the position of brigadier general in the northern division of that organization.

Shortly after the war he married Miss Celestia Cochran. Several children were born to them.

Some years later he moved with his family to Atlanta and began the association with the Southern railroad which was to last until a few years ago.

Funeral services for Mr. Harris will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Awtry and Lowndes, funeral directors. All Confederate veterans in Atlanta have been requested to attend the services.

In addition to the Confederate veterans leading members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy have been requested to attend the ceremonies. Mrs. Walter E. Lomax, matron of honor of the Atlanta chapter, has asked the following members to wear her at the chapel in order that they may attend in a body: Mrs. J. H. Coleman, assistant matron of honor; Mrs. S. L. Palmer, honorary matron of honor; Mrs. Frank Golden, chaplain; Miss Marian Steer, sponsor; Miss Ruth Steer, assistant sponsor; Mrs. R. M. Caraway, matron of maids of honor; Misses Elizabeth Arnold, Dorothy Harris, Dolly Harrelson and Doris Phillips, maids of honor; Misses Frances Camp and Mary Reese, maids of honor from Fairburn, and Misses Sarah McGee and Marian Homadieu, maids of honor from Thomasville.

Surviving Mr. Harris are five sons, Walter C. James C. and Harry H. Harris, of Atlanta; W. Oscar Harris, of Memphis, Tenn.; and John S. Harris, of Birmingham, Ala.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR HENRY M. KEY AT RAMOTH CHURCH

Milledgeville, Ga., August 30.—Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Ramoth church for Henry M. Key, 72-year-old resident of the Kinderhook section of Putnam county, who died at his home there Tuesday. Rev. E. P. McDaniel officiated.

Mr. Key is survived by his widow and the following children: Miss Lillian Key, Miss Alma Key, Mrs. E. C. Newsome, and John G. Key, of Katonah; Mrs. F. H. Hawkins, of Dennis Station; Miss Bessie Key, of Gordon, and H. B. Key, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. M. C. Green, of Gray and Mrs. J. F. Freeman, of Eatonton.

FINAL RITES HELD FOR W. C. DOBBINS

Funeral services for Walter C. Dobbins, 70, beloved Atlantan and prominent in life insurance circles for more than 50 years, who died Wednesday morning at the residence, 1235 West Peachtree street, were held Thursday afternoon from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon Co. The Rev. Wallace Rogers and the Rev. William J. Debardeleben officiated and interment was in West View.

Although a native of Newton county, Mr. Dobbins had resided in Atlanta since early manhood and was one of the best known life insurance executives in the state.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. J. D. SMITH

Funeral services for Mrs. J. D. Smith, 67, who died Wednesday afternoon at the residence, 221 East Hawthorne avenue, College Park, were held Thursday afternoon from the Shadner Baptist church in Union City. The Rev. L. E. Robert and the Rev. Jesse Dodd officiated and interment was in the churchyard.

Palbearers were Baynard Willingham, Fred Shafer, V. C. Mason, T. H. Porch, T. Z. Dean and E. D. Barrett.

Mrs. Smith is survived by her husband; three sons, Dr. R. N. Smith, of Tulsa, Okla.; Bernard and Royce E. Smith, of Rosell, N. J.; two daughters, Mrs. E. M. Brooks, College Park, and Mrs. R. G. Sharp, Atlanta; four sisters, Mrs. Edna Thornton, Union City; Mrs. Susan Wood, Gainesville, Mrs. D. A. Carmichael, Social Circle, and Mrs. Connie Davis, of Cisco, Texas; two brothers, L. M. Westbrook of Fairburn, and Dr. W. J. Westbrook, of Sipe Springs, Texas.

On Atlanta's Newest Hotel The Capital

CAPITAL HOTEL

The proposed Hotel Capital, located on the corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets, is right in the heart of the retail and wholesale districts of Atlanta. One block from the Terminal Station, which only recently spent $250,000 for umbrella sheds and enlarging its public lobby space. The Southern Railway is also spending something like $1,000,000 for enlargement of its office buildings near the Terminal Station—bringing to Atlanta 1,200 additional employees from their offices in Washington, D. C.

We have also been assured by high officials of the railroad world that the Terminal Station will not be moved for many years to come, if ever.

There is no fireproof hotel on the south side of Atlanta and with the business pendulum swinging in this direction the Hotel Capital is bound to pay from the very beginning.

All the Whitehall stores recently vacated by the northward exodus have been leased by chain stores corporations who know the business of Atlanta is still on the south side—and, in many instances, higher rentals are being paid than was realized when the stores were vacated.

LAND VALUES

Asa G. Candler paid $5,000 a front foot for the lot exactly opposite the proposed site of the Hotel Capital, where a branch of the Citizens & Southern Bank is located, and the Bass Dry Goods property, just 30 feet below us, on the same side of the street, sold for $2,650 per front foot about 3 years ago.

Our lot is 130 feet on Mitchell street, running back 97½ feet on Forsyth street, with a lot in the rear 55x122½ to be used for garage space.

Notwithstanding the fact that we furnish security of more than two for one on an interest basis, owing to present market conditions we are offering these bonds to the public at 7%.

The architect and contractor will be the best that money can hire. The furniture and equipment the very best on the market.

One of the very ablest hotel men in the country has been engaged to manage the Hotel Capital.

The City Savings Bank and Trust Company will act as trustee for the bonds.

The following is a list of the Officers of the CITY SAVINGS BANK & TRUST COMPANY:

THE THROWER BUILDING

The Thrower Building has 233 rooms; it is rented at a very modest rate; so low that no one would ever ask for a reduction in rent, and yet we have a net income of $30,000.00 per year, which we are putting up as additional security for the bond issue on the Capital Hotel. The Thrower Building has 110,000 square feet of floor space—1,900,000 cubic feet. This building was appraised by John Malone at $887,500.00 before any improvements were made on same. This appraisal being the lowest out of three separate appraisals. There is a loan of $375,000.00 on the Thrower Building, leaving an equity of $512,500.00. When we have only valued the building at $750,000.00, leaving an equity of $375,000.00.

COURT TO PROBE JURY PANEL ROW

Clyde, Ga., August 30.—(AP)—A controversy over the recent revision of the Bryan county jury box which caused Judge Saxton Daniel of the Atlantic circuit to delay drawing the names of the November term panel, was brought into court today in the form of a mandamus directed against four of the six jury revisers of Bryan county.

The mandamus, which was filed by J. Perry Dukes, an attorney, attacked the right of three of the revisers to sit on the board and charged that the jury revisers did not take the names of veniremen from the tax receiver's books as required by law. It also alleged that religious and political prejudice caused the removal of certain names from the box.

Judge Daniel issued a rule nisi requiring the defendants to show cause Monday, September 10, why the mandamus should not be granted.

DEPUTY J. H. ESTES AT DEATH'S DOOR FOLLOWING STROKE

Little hope was held out Thursday afternoon for the recovery of J. H. Estes, 58, well known deputy attached to Judge E. D. Thomas' division of Fulton superior court, who was stricken with paralysis Sunday at his home, 576 Boulevard, S. E.

Mr. Estes suffered a second stroke Wednesday afternoon and was reported unconscious Thursday.

The officer was appointed a deputy 12 years ago when Sheriff James I. Lowry went into office. He is popular in court circles.

9 KILLED, 100 HURT IN ITALIAN STORM

Rome, August 30.—(AP)—Nine bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of dwellings in the region between Monza and Legnano, devastated by a furious hailstorm yesterday. More than 100 persons were injured.

The storm interrupted telephone communications and the electric lighting system at Monza was put out of commission.

Chimneys collapsed and houses were unroofed throughout the region. One of the spires of the Monza cathedral was blown down.

day by Harry O. Mitchell, branch manager of the department of commerce. Mr. Ellis has been touring Europe to investigate the export sales possibility for his company as well as spending some time at Carlsbad.

JAPANESE BEAUTY AND WIRE ARTIST COMING IN CIRCUS

PETITE TETU.

Japan has sent many clever and skillful wire artists to this country, but never before has the "land of the cherry blossoms" been represented by such a beautiful and extraordinary wire performer as Petite Tetu. This little girl does an amazing routine and uses a slack wire as the basis of all her tricks, which are performed without aid of a parol or balancing sticks.

Petite Tetu is one of the many famous wire artists with John Robinson's circus, scheduled to give exhibitions here next Monday. Walter Powell, sensational somersaulter, will also appear in the big international wire display, as will Gretchen Deinhart, the peer of all German girls.

"King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," which calls for a cast of over 600 performers, both human and animal, will open the program.

FAIR CASE CONTINUED; DELAY BRINGS REBUKE

First delivering a rebuke for dilatory tactics in criminal cases set for trial, Judge John D. Humphries in superior court Thursday granted a postponement until September 18 in a trial of Fred D. Fair, who is charged with the murder August 16 of John John E. McDaniel.

The case had been set for trial Thursday over the protest of Len Guilbeau, defense counsel, who urged his client's employment in defense of the case Thursday, but that he was of the opinion that attorneys were employed to try to delay the case.

Judge Humphries set the case for September 18 and warned associate Counsel John W. Brewer be ready to proceed at that time.

FORD CREDIT BRANCH OPENS SEPTEMBER 1

The Universal Credit company, offering the authorized Ford finance plan for time payment purchasers of Ford products Thursday announced the opening on September 1 of the Atlanta branch office of this exclusively Ford financing institution on the sixth floor of the 101 Marietta street building. The Atlanta branch office will cover the financing requirements of Ford purchasers on deferred payments in the entire territory under the Atlanta branch of the Ford Motor company, this being most of Georgia and Alabama, Tennessee surrounding Chattanooga, and a small part of North Carolina.

Ford dealers comprising the Atlanta district, over 50 in number, will meet with executives of the Ford Motor company and the Universal Credit company at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, where the Universal Credit company plan will be outlined and policies covered in full detail by E. F. Howington and C. G. George, respectively, of the Universal Credit company. At regular intervals for the next several days similar dealer meetings will be held throughout the territory.

Under the Universal Credit company plan, as will be presented at the Ford dealers' meeting today, it will be shown that Ford products are placed in the time buyers' hands at the lowest possible cost, officials said Thursday. This financing arrangement creates an important economy for the time purchasers of Ford cars, offering the time buyer credit accommodation at the lowest cost, wide selection of terms, a standard fire and theft insurance policy, a leading insurance company, credit accommodations furnished by an exclusive Ford finance institution, and a refund for anticipating the original period of the contract.

E. F. Howington, of Atlanta, will be branch manager and will preside at the meeting. Mr. Howington has had lengthy experience in automotive finance and is widely known in the automobile industry.

HANCOCK DEMOCRATS MUST DECLARE FAITH

Sparta, Ga., August 30.—Chairman Samuel H. Wiley, of the Hancock county democratic executive committee has called a meeting of this body Friday at the courthouse. The meeting is called for the purpose of having each candidate for county office, all of whom announced and ran their campaigns on the democratic ticket, to come before the committee and declare themselves for or against the democratic nominee for president.

Those who refuse to support the party under whose banner they were nominated or are seeking election, will be removed from the local list. All of the county officers in Hancock county have been elected except a representative in the legislature.

Two candidates, ex-State Senator John C. Lewis and C. W. Coleman, are running in this office. They have sent notices to appear before the committee Friday and declare themselves.

According to the announcement of chairman Wiley this is the only business to be transacted by the committee at its meeting Friday, but other matters of importance may come up for attention before the meeting has adjourned.

TALMADGE ECONOMY CLAIM HIT BY ADAMS

The claim that he had saved the state a quarter of a million dollars attributed to Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, in a campaign speech at Camden, August 20, was challenged Thursday by G. C. Adams, his opponent for renomination in the September primary.

In a letter to the commissioner Talmadge, Mr. Adams charged that the statement was untrue and could not be verified by records in the office of the state auditor.

"In a letter from the state auditor to J. P. Carroll, under date of August 21, the state auditor says that your withdrawal amounted to $3,617 more than the disbursements of your predecessor for the same six months' period of the previous year," Mr. Adams wrote. "He also states that only an audit of your department will disclose the true expenditures in the department of agriculture for this six months' period and he states that he is willing to make an audit of your department if you ask for it."

Mr. Adams asked Commissioner Talmadge if he intended to ask for the audit. In his letter to the commissioner, he charged that the figures were made up in the office of the commissioner for political purposes.

Mr. Talmadge's opponent also renewed his attack on the commissioner in connection with the department payroll.

"I note that you have very carefully refrained, Mr. Talmadge, from telling the people how many members of the legislature you put on the payroll and how much money you have paid them," Mr. Adams wrote. "You have not told the people how many of your kindreds you have had on the payroll and how much money you have paid them. Yet two years ago you went all over the state telling the people you would operate the department of agriculture for half the cost, and that you were against nepotism. Tell the folks, Mr. Talmadge, if you are still against nepotism whether or not your father is on the payroll at a salary of $200 per month, with his work assigned to him to inspect products of the cottonseed oil mills, as it is not true that he is drawing a pension from these same mills $5 per month. Tell the people if you are still against nepotism and if you are why you put your stepson on the payroll at a handsome salary, and if you are thousands of other men over this state who are out of work and crying for something to do."

City Light School
To On Registration
On Tuesday Afternoon

Registration of pupils at the Central Night school, which this year will feature a "elementary course in journalism," will take place from 5 p. m. until 7 p. m. on Wednesday and Friday of next week, said, announced Sunday, the principal, Professor C. W. Tamm. As a large registration is urged, new students are requested to get early.

The school is free to all white citizens of Atlanta, and includes sixth grade, junior high, full course in leading commercial subjects.

MAYOR IS PROBING FALSE RIOT ALARM

In letters to Chief of Police James L. Beavers and officials of the Fox Manufacturing company, Bankhead highway and Marietta street, following the false riot alarm at the Fox plant Tuesday, Mayor Ragsdale Thursday disapproved of unnecessary such calls.

The mayor called on the company and the chief to furnish him with information as to the cause of the alarm. The letter to the Fox company officials follows:

"I have information that some officer of your organization called Chief Beavers and asked for a policeman at a certain time for a certain purpose a day or two ago. It seems from what I can learn that your call started a riot call and numbers of motorcycle men were dispatched to your place to quell the riot.

"You will be so kind as to furnish me with the details of what happened, what officer you talked with, when you asked for the policeman, and if you said anything in your conversation that would lead to the necessity of calling out a riot squad?"

"It appears that Atlanta received some very unfavorable advertising on this account, and I am very anxious to know just what caused it. If you needed officers, you should have had them, but most certainly should not have had so many unless there was some danger of a riot."

THIRTY ARE INJURED IN TRAIN COLLISION

Havana, Cuba, August 30.—(AP)—Thirty persons were injured, several of them probably fatally, when two electric trains on the Havana Central railway collided on a curve four miles west of the city today. The motorman of the outbound train was arrested and charged with criminal negligence in taking the curve at an excess speed.

14 ARE INDICTED BY CHICAGO JURY

Chicago, August 30.—(AP)—The August special grand jury investigating April primary election irregularities today returned four indictments in its final report, naming 14 persons on charges of kidnaping, assault and conspiracy to violate personal liberty. Eight of the 14 had been named in previous indictments.

Virogen
Strengthens
Nerve
Muscles
and Vital Organs

LOCAL druggists have expressed themselves as amazed at the wonderful effects of Virogen, even in the most obscure and difficult cases. They agree that it acts by building up new, red blood corpuscles, to take the place of those destroyed by disease, for the general improvement and color of the skin shows that the blood is richer and the daily increase of strength and endurance substantiates this view.

VIROGEN is the discovery of a well-known hospital physician of New York who employed it with conspicuous success in thousands of cases before making any announcement of its beneficial effects. It is especially recommended to those who are suffering from loss of flesh and who feel that their general health and vital power are not up to the true standard of vigorous health.

Virogen Tonic Tablets are sold by Jacobs' and leading druggists everywhere. A ten-day treatment costs only $1. If you do not gain in weight and feel completely satisfied with the results, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Two Atlanta Boys Return After 12,697-Mile Journey

John Kneale, 16, and W. M. Keheley, Jr., 17, Eagle Boy Scouts who have just returned from an automobile trip around the United States, two provinces of Canada, and Mexico. It was a trip minus troubles of any kind, automobile, physical or financial.

An automobile tour of the United States, Mexico and two provinces of Canada has just been completed by two Atlanta boys, John Kneale, 16, of 478 Highland avenue, N. E., and W. M. Keheley, Jr., 17, of 1000 McLynn avenue. Both are Eagle Scouts and as such have had training in camping, cooking and all outdoor life. The purpose of the trip was to circle the United States and to visit the points of interest, especially the national parks.

With this end in view the boys set out from Atlanta on June 4 in a Ford and returned Thursday afternoon, having traveled 12,697 miles, visited 23 states, nine United States national parks and three Canadian parks. Each day they sent a report home, giving their expenses, the state of their health, the weather and an account of the interesting places they had visited.

From the famous Mammoth Cave the boys went north to Chicago and visited the lakes, stopping for several days at the North Camp near Lake Superior. From there they traveled west to Denver and saw Pike's Peak and the Rocky Mountain National park. Salt Lake City and the Mormon temple were visited next. Yellowstone and Glacier National parks preceded a trip to Alberta and British Columbia in Canada. South to the west coast of the United States, where they visited many points of interest, including Mount Ranier National, the Columbia River highway, Crater Lake National park, Mount Lassen, the only living American volcano, Reno, Nev.; Yosemite National park, San Francisco, where they saw the Golden Gate and Chinatown; Los Angeles, where they stayed for about five days, and thence to Tia Juana, Mexico. Later they visited the Grand American desert, the Grand Canyon and Carlsburg Cavern, New Mexico.

In the far southwest the boys became anxious to see home again and so cut across the southern states to Atlanta. Both were of the opinion that it was the greatest trip ever, in spite of numerous mosquitoes and too friendly bears. And the trip was even more successful from a motorist's point of view for these lucky boys actually managed to circle the United States without a single accident of any description.

SAND, GRAVEL LOSS IN RIVER DEPLETED

Proper legislation to save the sand and gravel values of the Chattahoochee river bed for Georgia, to whom the river rightly belongs, was urged Thursday by Governor L. G. Hardman in an address before members of the junior chamber of commerce.

Georgia owns the Chattahoochee to the west bank of the river, but Florida and Alabama are getting the valuable sand and gravel free and are deriving the revenue from it, because the Georgia authorities are powerless to act. Governor Hardman said. In his address on Georgia's resources and possible development, Dr. Hardman pointed out that Georgia gravel and sand are of the highest type for road building purposes.

Pointing out that today mineral rights are recognized for sand and gravel, Governor Hardman said that the state should look after its interests in the matter of the Chattahoochee sand and gravel by passing the proper legislation. Declaring that the proceeds from the sale of sand and gravel would pay for good roads and schools, Dr. Hardman said that Georgia's resources include more good road material than in any other state, and asked: "Why shouldn't we have good roads?"

Among other resources of Georgia, Dr. Hardman listed enough coal to provide for the state for 200 years, enough feldspar to make the state independent in the provision of potash for fertilizer, gold, precious stones, and other valuable things.

The most precious values of the state, however, are those of human life and human endeavor. Dr. Hardman said, and in this connection he praised Robert F. Maddox, as head of the state health department for fact that "for the first time the state has a health laboratory properly equipped."

Dr. Hardman said that the laboratory has treated 26,999 persons against hydrophobia, made 41,600 water analyses, 4,820 animal treatments, and supplied 4,747,138,000 units of diphtheria anti-toxin, and 2,555,336 cubic centimeters of typhoid vaccine. The laboratory has also made 370,586 bacteriological examinations, he said.

Governor Hardman urged conservation of millions of acres of waste lands by the hardwood industry, stating that the reclamation of the lands for hardwood growing would mean $700,000,000 in 20 years.

A. W. Bohnfalk presided as chairman. Roy Eddleman, Atlanta's "singing policeman," sang several selections with accompaniment by E. Volpi, and Miss Mary Louise Blanchard gave some dance numbers.

New York State Federation of Labor Indorses Al Smith

Rochester, N. Y., August 30.—(AP)

A resolution endorsing the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the presidency was adopted by the annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor today.

The vote was by acclamation. Two of the dissenting delegates succeeded in having their "noes" recorded after the noise incident to the vote had subsided.

The resolution pledged "the sincere and energetic support of the members of organized labor in New York state" in the governor's behalf and called upon "wage earning citizens" in other states to aid in the campaign.

COUNTY DEFERS PARK SITE PROBE

While the Fulton county commission Thursday indefinitely postponed a meeting called to consider charges of the grand jury connecting the county with the city in imputations of "wild expenditures" in the purchase of Ragsdale park, J. B. Everett, inspector for the state real estate commission, announced at Savannah that he would ask an investigation of the purchase when the commission meets today.

Inability to obtain a quorum, with several of the county commissioners out of the city and another occupied with the affairs of a partner who died recently, prevented the Fulton commission from meeting Thursday, as previously announced.

The Fulton board, according to the statement Wednesday of Chairman Walter B. Stewart, had contemplated no action with regard to county payment of a $400,000 pledge on the park purchase until the city council can fully complete its investigation.

So far the county has paid $20,000 toward the acquisition of the site, the only cash paid on the purchase agreement to date, it was said. This was done at formal request of city council, which will be expected to protect the county in the matter, Mr. Stewart said.

The council investigating committee, which conducted a series of public hearings into all phases of the transaction, is expected to report its findings to the regular meeting of city council Monday.

In its special presentations returned

Tuesday, the jury, which will be dismissed today, urged the September term of the grand jury to probe "graft charges," and recommended that the Fulton commission make no further payment of money to the project.

Charles M. Ford, councilman, is alleged to have signed a commission contract in connection with the purchase which provided that the net commissions be split three ways between Ford, Sam P. Cronheim, real estate dealer, and J. A. Smith, civic league official.

In a press despatch from Savannah Thursday Mr. Everett is quoted as taking a stand for a full investigation of the deal by the Georgia Real Estate commission.

MRS. S. A. WINTERS DIES AT PRIVATE HOSPITAL

Mrs. S. A. Winters, 83, 44 Polo drive, died Thursday morning at a private hospital, following a brief illness. Although a native of Talbotton, Mrs. Winters had resided in Atlanta for over forty years and enjoyed a wide circle of friends here.

She was a devoted member of the Temple Baptist church, but because of her advanced years had been unable to attend services for the past few years. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg and company.

The Rev. Elam F. Dempsey and Dean Comer Woodward, of Emory university, will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery. Survivors will be J. H. Porter, H. J. Durand, John Collier, Jeff Wright, John Justis, Joe Fagan and L. C. Fore.

Mrs. Winters is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John T. Ennis, of Atlanta; two grandsons, Dr. Irwin Ennis and J. Dan Ennis, both of Atlanta; a granddaughter, Mrs. James E. Fancher, also of Atlanta; three great-grandsons, J. Dan Ennis, Jr., Billie Ennis and James K. Fancher, Jr., and a nephew, J. A. Hawkins, of Fitzgerald.

WAYCROSS TOBACCO MART ENDS SEASON

Waycross, Ga., August 30.—The Waycross tobacco market closed today with Waycross having sold over a million pounds more than was sold in 1927. There has been a decided increase in the number of pounds sold each year since the market was opened and the people here are delighted at the rapid progress that has been made.

This year placed Waycross in the 3,000,000-pound class and next season should carry the total to the point where two sets of buyers will be required. It is believed that credit for this increase is due in large measure to the work of the two tobacco demonstrators in Ware county and to the increasing interest of the business men of Waycross in the tobacco industry.

Waycross by means of public subscriptions moved one tobacco warehouse here from Hoboken and also established the Southern Georgia Agricultural Credit corporation, which assisted the farmers in financing their tobacco crops.

The two banks of Waycross—the First National and the Commercial—have made it possible for this credit corporation to get the money to the farmers the same day a loan is approved. The banks have assisted the growth of the industry in many other ways.

The Waycross tobacco market is now well established and every year has brought it higher ranking among the markets of the state. Despite the low prices which prevailed this year, Waycross is confident tobacco is proving a backbone of prosperity for this section and will also be the means of a wiser diversification in agricultural crops. Already increased attention is being paid naval stores, timber, dairying, live stock production and truck growing.

My commission expires July 4, 1930.

VALDOSTA HOUSES NEARING CLOSE.

Valdosta, Ga., August 30.—(AP)—The Valdosta tobacco market sold 150,476 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $19,452.83. Today's sales will barely reach 100,000 pounds. Two branch warehouses were closed. The three principal warehouses will remain open through Wednesday of the coming week, despite the decrease in the amount of leaf marketed.

THOMASVILLE ENDS UNPROFITABLE SEASON.

Thomasville, Ga., August 30.—(Special.)—The tobacco market at Thomasville closed the 1928 season when today's sales ended. On an average it has not been a profitable year for the growers. Too much wet weather all spring and summer interfered with cultivation and curing, deteriorated the plants and lowered grades of the cured leaf, with low prices as the result.

A limited number of the growers have made some profit, more think they have about broken even, others think they will just about get back money put in the crop and lose their time and labor, while still others think they have not even received back actual cash put into the raising and marketing of the crop. Offerings today were light, about 30,000 pounds, mostly very low grade leaf, and the price averaged only about nine cents per pound.

RESIDENCE IS LOOTED; CLOTHING IS STOLEN

A daring thief entered and looted the home of B. F. Burnett, at 1857 Peachtree road Wednesday night while neighbors sat on porches a few yards away, according to reports made to police Thursday.

The family left the house about 7 o'clock and returned at about 10 o'clock to find several hundred dollars worth of clothing missing. The thief entered the house by forcing a window.

Colonel Baltzell Given Smoker By Infantry at Fort McPherson

Fort McPherson, August 30.—Colonel George F. Baltzell was guest of honor Thursday evening at a smoker given by the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Twenty-second Infantry at Chateau McPherson. The guests, including 30, were the members of the regiment on duty at the garrison and General Abraham G. Lott, who is the post commander, and his staff. The guests were seated at one long table and flowers in low bowls and the regimental flags were effectively arranged. A special feature was the dancing of Miss Mildred Franke, the talented young daughter of Major and Mrs. Gustav H. Franke, Miss Franke, wearing a Grecian costume in palest blue and her hair bound with a fillet band was graceful and lovely in Chambraces scarf dance. For her second number, a tap dance, which she rendered with marked agility, she wore a pink costume made quite short and her hair tumbled about her shoulders. The acrobatic dance, which was a difficult number, was especially well executed and Miss Franke presented it in quite a finished manner. Her dainty dress of pink chiffon made with a tight bodice and full skirt enhanced her youthful brunette beauty. For encore Miss Franke selected a jazz number which reflected the modern school of dancing and showed her versatile talent. Her colorful ballet costume was trimmed with roses and worn without slippers. Captain Robert Joerg, III, presided as toastmaster for the evening and Colonel Walter O. Boswell made a brief talk expressing the regret the regiment felt in losing Colonel Baltzell.

Staff Sergeant E. S. Burma, who has had 23 years service with the 22d infantry, was selected to speak on behalf of the enlisted personnel of the regiment. In a well chosen talk he told of "the colonel's" efforts to bring the regiment up to its present high standard, and the high regard the men felt for Colonel Baltzell. Colonel Baltzell was born in Florida, and was appointed from that state to the military academy. He was graduated from the Army War college, Army Staff college and is a distinguished graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry school. Colonel Baltzell is completing his second year with the 22d infantry, having arrived at the garrison December 7, 1925. The entire command sincerely regret his departure, and wish him much happiness in his new station at Jacksonville, Fla.

Social activities of the garrison continue to center around Colonel and Mrs. Baltzell, who leave next month for their new station. Friday evening the Fort McPherson Officers' club entertained at a brilliant hop at their club rooms in honor of this popular couple. The receiving line will be made up of the officers of the club and their wives, including General and Mrs. Abraham G. Lott, Colonel and Mrs. Walter O. Boswell and Major and Mrs. Nelson Myll and Colonel and Mrs. Baltzell, the honor guests. Preceding the hop General and Mrs. Lott entertained at dinner in honor of Colonel and Mrs. Baltzell.

Saturday evening Colonel and Mrs. Walter O. Boswell will be guests at dinner in honor of General and Mrs. E. J. Williams and Colonel and Mrs. Baltzell.

Mrs. F. J. Cutler, of Fort Bragg, N. C., arrived to be the guest of Major and Mrs. Gustav H. Franke at their home in Elmwood drive. Captain Cutler and Lieutenant G. B. Floyd will motor to Atlanta Saturday to spend several days as guests of Major and Mrs. Franke. They will be accompanied home by Mrs. Cutler.

Albert Wing, Jr., entertained informally at his quarters in the garrison Thursday evening at a watermelon sitting in honor of John Boswell and Peter Jones who returned Wednesday afternoon from the Y. M. C. A. camp near Athens, where they have been spending the past eight weeks.

During the evening the guests attended the post movie. The guests included John Boswell, Peter Jones, Paul Downing, Wood Joerg and Frank Joerg, of Columbus; George Brandt, Leslie Duval, Tom Procter, Gilbert Procter, Charles Hill, Ben Jones, and Ralph Holliday.

The Misses Trimble Give House Party.

Misses Pauline and Christine Trimble entertained at a houseparty at Ko-weeta club last week-end following the close of the camping season for girls and preceding the opening of Ko-weeta club for business and professional women. Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. Trimble, of College Park, the father and mother of Misses Trimble, were honor guests at the house party and occupied the Arapaho hut. Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Trimble and sons, Hallman, Lucien and Ramsey, of Moultrie, arrived Thursday and joined their daughters, Miriam and Vangia, in the Navajo teepee where they have spent the last eight weeks' camping season. Mr. and Mrs. J. Hughie and sons, Melvin, Trimble and Ernest, Jr., of College Park, occupied the Seminole hut. Dr. and Mrs. Hoyt Thorpe and their daughters, Anne and Florrie, of College Park, were guests in the Cherokee hut.

Bell - Jackson Wedding Is Of Wide Interest

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bell announce the marriage of their sister, Camella Irene Bell, to Hansell McBride Jackson, Thursday, August 30, at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was quietly performed by Father Clark at the St. Anthony church, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

Mrs. Jackson, as Miss Bell, has endeared herself to many friends in Atlanta. She is a graduate of Girls high school, where she was very popular among the student body. Mr. Jackson is well known in the business circles of Atlanta where he is in business for himself.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Grove Park inn, Asheville, N. C., where they will spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will be at home at 314 Peachtree Battle avenue, Haynes Manor, after September 15.

Thornton-Bryan.

Greensboro, Ga., August 30.—(Special).—The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Thornton to Harold Lamb Bryan, both of Union Point, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Redman Thornton, at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, the Rev. Malcomb Alexander MacDonald officiating.

Miss Celestine Copeland, pianist, played Lohengrin's Wedding march and the Melody of Love, softly during the ceremony. The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of garden flowers in shades of yellow, and unshaded candles burned at the altar.

The bride's dress was an elegant creation of brown chiffon with her bouquet consisting of sweet peas. During the ring ceremony the bride gave her flowers to Mrs. Sibley Bryan.

Miss Thornton is a beautiful and accomplished young society girl and the bridegroom is the namesake of the Honorable Harold Lamb.

The couple left immediately for New York, the trip to be made by boat. Upon their return they will reside at Hawthorne Heights, the home of the Honorable Harold Lamb, at Union Point.

West End Woman's Club To Sponsor Dance Series.

The Saturday evening dances at the West End Woman's club will sponsor a series of dancing contests on Saturday evening, September 1. Contests will start immediately after intermission, three couples being selected at each dance for a period of four weeks. These couples will enter the final contest for selection of prize winners. Twenty dollars in gold will be awarded as first prize in the final contest. Other prizes will be awarded. Selection during the preliminaries will be made by applause. Selection in the final contest will be made by select judges qualified to judge strictly ballroom dancing. These dances will be chaperoned by members of the club. Frank Eyles will be in charge of floor and Miss Laura Johnston will act as hostess. For information call Mrs. O. B. Busbee, West 1390-W.

Ben Hill Club Holds Meeting.

The Ben Hill Home Demonstration club met Monday with a large attendance. Final plans were made for the community fair, to be given in Ben Hill September 13. The pre-school circle will sponsor a baby show at this fair. Baby specialists and nurses will be in attendance.

Hebrew Home Has Picnic.

The annual picnic for the children of the Hebrew Orphans' Home, sponsored by Gate City lodge No. 144, Independent Order B'Nai B'rith, was held at Lakewood, August 29, from 1:30 to 6:30 o'clock. Through Oscar Mills, secretary of the fair association, and owners of the concessions at Lakewood, the children enjoyed all rules and novelties of the resort. Races of all kinds for the boys and girls were arranged. The supper was in charge of the ladies' committee.

The Misses VanHook's School of Fine Arts and Kindergarten, 52 Inman Circle, will reopen Sept. 5, at 9 o'clock. Arrangements may be made for the school car to call for children when desired.—(adv.)

All Saints League Presents Dutch Play At Eggleston Hall

The Young Peoples Service League of All Saints Episcopal church, assisted by members of the other service leagues in the city union, will present a delightful modern Dutch play at 8 o'clock Friday evening at Eggleston hall, proceeds from which will be used in carrying on the charity work of this organization.

Rehearsals have been under the personal direction of Miss Helen A. Battle, and those who have privileged to witness dress rehearsals of this charming musical playlet as presented by the cast chosen from the best talent in the city union of Young Peoples Service leagues declare it to be a finished production that would do credit to professionals.

The principal leads are taken by Frederic Roberts, Eleanor Stanford, Helen Smith, Charles F. von Herrmann, James Lowe, John Powell, Norman Pettys, and Oscar Sanders. The chorus includes Willie Williams, Janie King, Perrell, Helen Miles, Daisy Beane, Davant Lawton, Jack Woolf, Randy Whitfield, and Howard Callahan. Practically the entire cast has had previous experience in musical plays presented by the service leagues of Atlanta, all of which have been of a high order of excellence.

Candy for Children No Longer a Problem to Mothers

Now you can give the children all the candy they want. Science has solved your problem. Science has produced a delicious, fruit-flavored lollipop that is actually good for even the most delicate digestion, because it is made of Dextrose.

Your physician will tell you that Dextrose is more digestible than Lactose (the sugar of milk). He will tell you that Dextroses, as these new and delightful candies are called, will not harm any child, and are tremendously valuable as an element of diet.

Now when your children beg for candy—give them Dextroses, with perfect confidence, without the slightest misgivings. For Dextroses are friendly to little stomachs. DEXTRON COMPANY, ATLANTA.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER GETS SCRATCHED. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Who never thinks to look behind. Is little better off than blind.

Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was absorbed in what he was looking at. He did not know that he was looking at what he was looking at.

Without the least warning Peter was knocked flat. Yes, sir, he was knocked right over. Not only that, but a lot of sharp claws pricked his skin. It seemed to him as if they pricked him all over. Peter squealed right out with pain and surprise and fright. And he kicked. My goodness how he did kick! He drew those long hind feet of his up and shot them out with all his strength. When Peter kicks he can kick hard. He kicked hard now. And Peter was lucky. Those two hind feet of his landed right in the stomach of the sister of that little bobcat he had been watching. It was she who had jumped on Peter. She had seen Peter when he first arrived and she had stolen up until she was close enough to jump on him. She hadn't made a sound.

Now that little bobcat really wasn't big enough to kill a full grown rabbit.

Her teeth were not yet big enough to do much more than hurt, but they were big enough to hurt and her little claws were sharp enough to scratch and she made the most of it. Of course the kitten who had been playing in the moonlight stopped play and came over to see what was going on. It was perhaps fortunate for Peter that he succeeded in planting that kick in the stomach of the other little bobcat just before the other one reached them. The little bobcat let go and squealed. Peter scrambled to his feet and dodged. Their way he went, lippy-lippy-lippy, as fast as his legs would take him. He wasn't a second too soon. The squall of that kitten brought her mother, Mrs. Yowler, to the scene in a hurry, but by the time she reached Peter he had disappeared. He ran until he was out of breath. Then he crept into a bramble-tangle and began to smooth his hair and lick the places where those sharp little claws had scratched him.

Rough Road To Stage Career

Constitution-Howard Contest Opens Way to Stardom

Paved for Some Local Girl

Every year thousands of ambitious girls travel from all over the world to New York to try to make a stage career in New York. Most of them have never heard of casting directors or booking agencies. Few if any realize the heart-breaking tramp from one agency to another, the long discouraged waiting line, and usually the curt "nothing doing just now, Miss" from an office boy.

Every day hundreds of girls find themselves stranded in New York, without real friends to guide and advise them. They go hungry, and often sink into obscurity, or are the prey of the unscrupulous, or they lose their natural talent because of lack of means of expression. They hate to go back home and confess failure, so they march bravely on—to oblivion.

Every year, this city sends a dozen or more tender recruits out to join this army of heart-broken girls. Now, however, all that can be avoided.

Girl To Get Chance.
If you are a talented girl—or if you know a talented girl, have her read today's Constitution, and enter the 1928 "Personality Girl" contest, conducted by Public Theaters through the cooperation of The Constitution and the Howard theater here. Examiners will give the correct evaluation of talent and personality. Sympathetic, tried and true life-long friends will give honest encouragement. And if the girl has merit sufficiently strong enough to be marketable, she will get her chance under proper theatrical sponsorship and circumstances—and be paid $75 per week.

And if she then appears to have the talent and personality that the public demands, the national Public organization will give her the chance, and pay her $125 per week for one year, during which time she will play for one week each in the best theaters in the biggest cities in America, with railroad fare and pullman paid, and the chaparral and guidance of the sincere and successful accredited leader.

ers of the theatrical world to help her on her way to fame.
So if you know a girl of good repute who is beautiful and talented, urge her to enter the contest. She can be rich or poor—that makes no difference. She can be a society-bud or a working girl. Requirements are exactly the same, and the judgment will be passed by public acclamation and the experience of theatrical experts.

Tell her to read The Constitution today and every day. Tell her to read the rules carefully, and comply. You will do her a favor. And you'll probably help create a marvelous and permanent advertisement for this city.

Read the rules and fill out the coupon.
1. Contestant must be between 18 and 25 years of age, and unmarried.
2. She must have personality capable of development for the stage.
3. She must be beautiful, and talented.
4. Singers, dancers, instrumentalists are wanted, particularly "personality singers."
5. The application coupon must be filled out completely and mailed to the "Personality Girl" Editor of The Constitution.
6. Address all communications to the Personality Girl Editor of The Constitution.
7. There is only one prize—first prize. Two alternates will be chosen in case the winner is unable to comply with the requirements. The prize is a four weeks' engagement at the Howard theater at $75 per week, as one of the stars in the Public stage production. If after that time theater experts consider her talents sufficiently worthy, the winner will be given an option on her services at $125 per week for one year, and will be starred in a Public stage show that makes a tour of the principal theaters and cities in America.
8. The judges will make selections of girls who have been given an opportunity to appear on the stage in public, to let the theater-goers of Atlanta choose the winner. The judges will be guided largely by audience reaction, but will retain the privilege of passing final judgment in order to meet the complex requirements of theater-donors.
9. No applicants will be considered unless coupons, completely filled out, are mailed to the Personality Girl Editor of The Constitution. Don't wait until the last day. The earliest applicants make the most lasting impressions!

BODIES OF FLIERS FOUND IN WRECK

Milford, Pa., August 30.—(AP)—Fellow aviators and searchers carried out of the wilderness late today the bodies of Mabel M. Merrill and Edwin Ronne, killed in a crash of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's Curtiss Falcon plane six miles from here.
The two, lost on a flight from Buffalo to Curtiss field, N. Y., were found dead at daylight after more than 150 men had searched most of the night through the dense growth of scrub oak and pine. Their wrecked plane had been sighted from the air the day before.
The plane fell in the heart of a country rarely visited even by hunters. The nearest road, a half mile away, is an abandoned trail, overgrown with underbrush. Over this a wagon, drawn by a team of horses, forced its way.

Pack Bodies.
Men packed the bodies through the dense undergrowth this half mile away. Their progress was slow. "Casey" Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service and Merrill's chief, directed the removal of the bodies.
The coroner's jury, summoned earlier in the day, waited to begin the inquest, when the wagon reached town. Immediately after the inquest an undertaker prepared the bodies for shipment tonight to Buffalo and Garden City, the respective homes of the victims.
Ronne was manager of the Municipal Flying field at Buffalo. Merrill was manager of Curtiss field. They were returning Lindbergh's plane to the latter field when they crashed.

Shed Top Off Tree.
The plane, when diving into the ground, had cleared the top from a tall pine tree. Four hundred yards away were the motor and parts of the fuselage, buried in a hole five feet deep and 20 feet wide. A hundred yards farther on was the tail and rear of the fuselage. In this was found one of the bodies, battered beyond recognition.
Fifteen feet ahead and clear of the wreckage was the other man. He also was bruised and battered beyond recognition.
Rescuers said there had been no fire. The plane wreckage was scattered over a 300-yard area.
Today's gruesome find ended the greatest airplane search in this section of the country. More than two scores of planes participated, searching parts of four states.
Tomorrow the Curtiss Flying Service will be inoperative in tribute to Merrill and Ronne. Both were army-trained men and served as instructors during the war. Merrill was born in Richmond, Utah, and Ronne, in Minneapolis. He was 35, Merrill was 36.

ASSAULT ATTEMPTED ON MARRIED WOMAN
A young married woman living on Ormond avenue was the victim of an attempted assault in her home Thursday night by a young white man, according to police reports.
The woman reported that as she was in the bathroom at her home about 9 o'clock, the door suddenly opened and a young white man stepped in and told her not to make any noise. She screamed as he spoke and fled from the house after striking her once across the face. It is thought that the man entered the home through a rear door, which had been left unlocked.
She described him being of medium height and having black hair, dressed in gray trousers, a white shirt, no coat and a Panama hat.

Tudor.
Bob Steele, the 21-year-old western star, who has risen to the top with lightning like speed, comes through with another crackjack drama for the Tudor patrons today and Saturday. "The Trail of Courage" is the title, and in this picture the fast-stepping star is called upon to tame a wild horse.

Cameo.
In "His Tiger Lady," at the Cameo Friday, Adolphe Menjou is an extra man of the Follies. He comes interested in and ultimately wins the hand of the wealthy tiger lady. Her particular form of diversion is to test the love of her admirers through the medium of a ferocious tiger.

Empire.
Friday, always a popular day at the new Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crev street, has two splendid attractions billed for today. "The American Beauty" will be seen on the screen, while this evening at 8 o'clock the stage will be turned over to non-professional entertainers who will present some unusual entertainment in the way of song, dance and chatter in competing in the "Amateur Nite" contest.

Defunct Bank Stock
Set Aside for Widow
Declared Not Exempt

The capital stock of a defunct bank set aside to a widow for a year's support is not exempt from assessment for the benefit of creditors of the insolvent institution, the court of appeals Thursday ruled in upholding the trial judge who refused to sustain a demurrer to that effect filed by attorneys for Mrs. J. P. Doster, who was the defendant in a suit brought by A. B. Mobley as superintendent of state banks of Georgia.
The tribunal further held it is not essential to the liability of the stockholder in an insolvent banking corporation for benefit of its creditors that the stock stands on the books of the corporation in the name of the stockholder assessed but such assessment may be made against the real owner although the stock stands on the books of the corporation in the name of another who has no interest therein.

Keith's Georgia.
The current Keith's Georgia program with Chet Chaplin, the Indian baritone, and "Doc" Baker, the quick-change artist at the head of the vaudeville portion of the bill, will play its last performance tomorrow. Monday brings to the Georgia the Zane Grey story, "The Water Hole," featuring Jack Holt and Nancy Carroll.

Capitol.
Toots Dunbar, local child prodigy, is the outstanding dancer in the elaborate revue which is the stage show at the Capitol theater this week, where many of the stars of station WSB are appearing in person. The screen features are on the screen, the first being Glenn Tryon in "How to Handle Women," and the second featuring Clara Bow in "The Primrose Path."

Loew's Grand.
The "Whirl of Splendor," a big dancing revue offered by 14 people, is the headline attraction of a well-balanced vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand theater this week. Other acts are a comedy sketch by Byron & Grey in a sketch with songs; The Three Vagabonds, singers and musicians, and the Bardolangs, hand balancers. Lee Cody and Allen Pringle are stars in "Wickedness Preferred," the Loew feature picture.

Metropolitan.
Arnhem's "Ambassadors"—the orchestra that furnishes music for the city's celebrities, is seen and heard at the Metropolitan this week. A number of popular musical hits, Daphne Pollard, former Sennett Comedy star, is also seen and heard in "Wanted, a Man," William Boyd, who starred in "The Cop," the Met's feature attraction for the week.

Rialto.
Only two more days remain for Atlantans to witness one of the most gripping films brought to the screen this season, "Four Sons," playing its second and last week at the Rialto theater. Margaret Mann, sensational 60-year-old "cinderella girl," is featured in the leading role, the mother, and James Hall and Francis X. Bushman, Jr., head the male cast. Acceptance speeches of Hoover and Smith are presented in sight and sound by Movietone news.

Alamo No. 2.
The combined acting skill of Emil Jannings and the directing of Josef von Sternberg stamp "The Last Command," which appears at the Alamo No. 2 theater today, as one of the outstanding pictures of the year.
Beautiful Evelyn Brent, who scored such a big success in "Underworld," and William Powell, of "Beau Geste" fame, are chief in the supporting cast of Jannings.

Tudor.
Bob Steele, the 21-year-old western star, who has risen to the top with lightning like speed, comes through with another crackjack drama for the Tudor patrons today and Saturday. "The Trail of Courage" is the title, and in this picture the fast-stepping star is called upon to tame a wild horse.

In "His Tiger Lady," at the Cameo Friday, Adolphe Menjou is an extra man of the Follies. He comes interested in and ultimately wins the hand of the wealthy tiger lady. Her particular form of diversion is to test the love of her admirers through the medium of a ferocious tiger.

Empire.
Friday, always a popular day at the new Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crev street, has two splendid attractions billed for today. "The American Beauty" will be seen on the screen, while this evening at 8 o'clock the stage will be turned over to non-professional entertainers who will present some unusual entertainment in the way of song, dance and chatter in competing in the "Amateur Nite" contest.

Defunct Bank Stock
Set Aside for Widow
Declared Not Exempt

The capital stock of a defunct bank set aside to a widow for a year's support is not exempt from assessment for the benefit of creditors of the insolvent institution, the court of appeals Thursday ruled in upholding the trial judge who refused to sustain a demurrer to that effect filed by attorneys for Mrs. J. P. Doster, who was the defendant in a suit brought by A. B. Mobley as superintendent of state banks of Georgia.

"Georgia Products Day"

To Be Observed Sept. 2.

Housewives are reminded that Sunday, September 2 is "Georgia Products Day," and all citizens are urged to dine on the products of Georgia farms.
A great variety of vegetables and fruits from Georgia farms have been offered for sale this season. Housewives are requested to ask dealers to supply them with table foods raised by Georgia farmers and help make the state more prosperous.

PHONE CAMPAIGN AGAINST 'LEGGERS' NETS 3 ARRESTS

Three alleged bootleggers walked into the arms of the law Wednesday night and Thursday morning through their trusting faith in a voice over the telephone. It was revealed Thursday in United States commissioner's court. The defendants, Aubrey Childers and Ernest B. Hill in one case, and Virgil O. Travis in another, were held by Commissioner E. S. Griffith for the federal grand jury under $1,000 bond each.

The arrests came as the result of a telephone campaign inaugurated by city police and federal officers, it was said. The defendants are alleged to have delivered liquor to a north side address in response to telephone calls from the officers.
Travis is charged with having possessed, transported and sold a quart of whisky and a quart of gin Wednesday night. The other two defendants drove up to the address in an automobile with two quarts of corn whisky, and while Childers stepped out of the car and made the delivery, Hill drove on to the corner, the officers alleged.

Eleven-Piece, One-Man Band Reaches Atlanta For Two Weeks' Visit

A noisy, harmonious and very active 11-piece band arrived in Atlanta late Thursday afternoon in a cut-down flier, decorated in all the colors of the rainbow, and will remain here for two weeks.
The band is composed of 11 instruments, all of which, played by one person, at the same time, comprise Sid's One-Man Jazz Band. Sue, the other and more attractive half of the "Phul o' Pep Twins," does a novelty dance and aids Sid in a vaudeville skit.
The twins are from Denver, Colorado, but started their present tour at Tampa, Fla., and are headed for New York, where they hope to land a contract with some vaudeville circuit.

At Macon, Ga., where the twins recently appeared, they gave their act before the Civic club and many other organizations and also filled an engagement at the Rialto theater.

Loew's Capitol Offers Plan To Aid Children's Society

SIX TICKETS WILL GO TO HIGHEST BIDDERS

Here's a chance to kill, not two birds, but three, with the use of but a single stone. A chance to witness the gala opening week's performance at Loew's Capitol theater, a chance to help the Georgia Children's Home society and a chance to get one of the autographed records of Johnny Marvin, famed Victrola recording artist.

This is the scheme: Loew's Capitol theater is offering, for the aid of the Georgia Children's Home society, six special invitations good for two seats in Loew's Capitol theater at any time during the opening week to the six highest bidders for these special invitations. Sealed bids for the tickets will be received until Tuesday, the bids to be sent to the Children's Aid department, Loew's Capitol theater, Atlanta. The six persons who submit the highest bids will get the six invitations, each good for two seats, and the entire proceeds will be turned over to the Children's Aid society.
Miss Emma Hardestate, supervisor of the society, has accepted this proffered gift and will see that the entire sum of money is used for the benefit of the children under the care of the society. Any person who has ever visited the Georgia Children's home will recall the generous swell of sympathy that goes out to the little children who are there, bright and happy little girls and boys, who are getting an opportunity in life through the aid of this organization.

Here's a chance for the attention of the Atlanta people to be called to the excellent work of this society and it is not beyond the realms of possibility that some of Atlanta's game citizens will submit bids as high as $100. There ought to be any number of bids of $10 and certainly there should be many $5 bids as the tickets and the autographed record are worth nearly this amount in cash. It's a great chance to help the worthy children and as every penny of the six highest bids goes to these children there is no limit to the amount that can be bid with assurance that the kids get the full benefit of every penny.
Johnny Marvin is the headline attraction on the special vaudeville sent here for the opening of Loew's Capitol under Loew management and he is one of the foremost artists in this field. He will autograph the records soon after his arrival Monday.

AUTOIST IS JAILED ON DRUNK CHARGE AFTER 2 CRASHES

G. B. Roberts, of Ben Hill, Thursday morning was arrested on charges of operating an automobile while intoxicated after he had figured in two collisions within the space of two hours, according to police reports.
According to Officers McCrary and Jones, the first accident was a collision between Roberts' car and one driven by T. G. Grogan, of 634 Cooper street. Leaving the scene of this accident Roberts is said to have pursued his course until a second collision with a city truck, operated by W. M. Pender, landed him in the city jail.

JARDINE RETURNS FROM ALASKAN TRIP

Portland, Ore., August 30.—(AP)—Returning to Washington from an Alaskan vacation trip, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, remained in seclusion here today to rest. Mr. Jardine came here yesterday from Seattle after cancelling all engagements there because of the delayed arrival of his boat in the Puget sound port.
The secretary was benefitted greatly by his trip, according to his brother, J. T. Jardine, who is with him.

Americans Run True to Form in Walker Cup, Says Hagen

British Have Only a Slim Chance Now

Eight Matches are Scheduled for Today, All of Them to Be Singles.

BY WALTER HAGEN.
British Open Golf Champion.
American Professional Champion.
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Publishing Co.)

Chicago Golf Club, Wheaton, Ill., August 30.—As expected the American team made a clean sweep of the Walker cup matches against Great Britain over the beautiful golf club links here today.

For a time yesterday it looked as if our friends from across the pond were going to make a real match of it, but the greater physique of the American players wore them down in the long grind over the 36-hole route.

At noon today the British entries were leading in the match, only one of them, the George Von Elm-Sweetser team, was at all lopsided. This American duo shot a bit of golf which was two-for-the two British amateur champions and once started they never gave the British team a chance.

James G. Hagen, who played with Chicago's great amateur, Chick Evans, after an even match in the morning, unleashed a drive of golf in the afternoon which had the British Major Hallett and W. L. Hope dazed. Bobby was playing well but it was the oddities, Chick, who shot the real golf of the day.

Time after time the Edgewater star laid his iron shots close to the cup, making the task of putting pretty easy for the Britons. Hallett's form impressed greatly. He hit a ball with a style that is absolutely unorthodox, but just the same he cranked the ball off the tee for a tremendous carry.

I know over in England he is regarded as one of the toughest match players in the amateur ranks and after watching him today I can readily see why that is so.

The playing of the two youngsters on the team, Watts Gunn and Roland Mackenzie, was the real sensation of the day. These two lads of the team were four down before they knew the match had started. But when they realized it they set out to whittle the lead down and once levelled gradually pulled away to win by a 7 and 5 margin, from their English opponents, John Beck and Dr. MacCallum.

Best Match of the Day
Jimmy Johnston and Francis Oimmet had the best match of the day against Eustace Storey and Tony Torrance. They were down at the end of the first 18 holes, but pulled up to a lead of three holes at the three-quarter mark, only to lose three holes in a row to even the match.

They started again and Jimmy ended the match with one of the greatest shots I have ever seen in tournament competition—a full wood to within two feet of the pin on 250 yards. That was just what ended the match. The Americans took the match.

Walker cup veteran, Eustace Storey, and his partner, Tony Torrance, and the match ended right there, 1 and 2. These two lads of the team were interesting and I would love to play in one some time. It is a bit of a different match—at least you have some one to blame for a few of the bad shots besides yourself.

Tomorrow will be the final day. The matches will be singles—eight in number and it will take a lot of good golf for the English to catch the fast flying Yankees. They still have a fighting chance, but the odds are overwhelmingly against him.

Farrell Shoots Course in 63
Lansing, Mich., August 30.—(United Press.)—Johnny Farrell, national open champion, set what is believed to be a new record for a scratch 18 holes in ten less than his previous record today.

Playing with Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich., pro, Farrell took 63 on the 6,016 yard, par 73 Groschek municipal course. Watrous, who held the previous record of 72, shot a 68 today.

Farrell's card showed one eagle, nine birdies and seven pars. He was one over par on the par three hole.

afternoon round to a birdie three scored by the Britons. Hallett drove down the middle and Hope laid a long iron shot dead to the pin for a birdie while Bob and Chick had to be satisfied with a regulation four.

The second was halved in buzzard five when both Chick and Hallett found trouble with their second shots and neither partner was able to lay the ball back to the green.

The American pair went two down at the third when Chick drove into the trap at the right of the green and Bob failed to get out with his blast shot.

Get Hole Back.
Bob and Chick took the hole back on the fourth. Hallett's brassie was 100 yards short of the green and Chick was beside him. Bob was 15 feet from the pin with his pitch and Hope's spade shot was over the green in a trap. Hallett conceded the hole. The Americans were one down.

The fifth was halved in perfect four and the match was again squared on the sixth when the Jones-Evans team rang up a birdie. This was the beginning of a drive of brilliant golf that sunk the hopes of the best British chance. Both drives were good. Chick pitched 12 feet from the pin and Hallett was 20 feet short. Hope putted and Hallett dropped the four, but it was of little avail when Robert canned the 12-footer for a birdie three.

Seven slipped by in buzzard fours for both sides, then the eighth went on the American side when par four beat a buzzard five. The British five was the result of a short brassie shot by Hallett and the failure of that individual to drop a six-footer past the pin. The Britons took the six as a reason of Hallett's poor drive, which found a trap at the right. Hope's shot was a buzzard five while the Americans took the six as a reason of Hallett's poor drive, which found a trap at the right. THE DUFFER CONFESSES.
"I like," said the Duffer serenely, "To read of the faults in this game; Of faults that are almost obscurely Blocking the highway to fame; Of those who are stymied or bunkered, Who don't pivot right from the tee, So please print a lot of the incorrect clutch, Of those who are swaying or ducking too much (Just any old fault is a personal touch) For that's what's the matter with me."

"I've read," he continued sedately, "Of six hundred faults in the swing; And those I am still quite innately Too modest my own praise to sing. When I see 'Twenty Systems of Slicing,' 'Raw faults on which masters agree,' The wrong way to pivot, the Incorrect Stance, The Flabby Pronation, the nerve-shattered trance, Oh, all the six hundred I know at a glance— For that's what's the matter with me."

SOME VETERANS.
A glance at the record shows that a young fellow by the name of Jack Quinn was pitching for Connellville, in the Pennsylvania State league, back in 1903.

NEW YORK CURB MEMBER PLACED UNDER SUSPENSION

UNDER SUSPENSION

New York, August 30.—(AP)—Suspension of Nelson J. Moxley from regular membership in the New York Curb Market for violation of that section of the constitution governing equitable trading, was announced today. The announcement said that facts presented to the board of governors indicated that for an extended period prior to July 2, Moxley maintained a joint account with a non-member of the curb market and failed to charge the non-member commission rate. This was held to be a violation of article 17, section seven, of the constitution and of a resolution of the board of governors.

Sugar.

New York, August 30.—Raw sugar was quiet today, but the undertone was firm and prices were well maintained, being quoted at 4.14 for spots, duty paid, influenced by increased demand for Cuban sugar from European and Canadian interests. Sales reported were about 25,000 bags of Cuban for second half September shipment to Canada at 2.57 for Cuba, equal to slight-

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

INSTALLMENT LIII. THE ESCAPE.

A girl could not be let run loose in her fever, thought the coal man. It was a good thing she'd been found, a nice thing if he had brought her to his missus all unbeknownst-like. She wouldn't have believed him, his missus wouldn't, along of him having been a bit of a lad afore he was married.

"She'll feel better after a sleep," said Mrs. Vestington sweetly. "Drive on Brown."

The girl sat frozen in her place, her hands clenched. Back in the trap! Back in the trap! Once those gates closed on her they closed on her forever, she told herself. Blossom would be waiting for her.

Yes, Blossom was waiting. The gates swung open to let them through and the old woman looked at her with an evil smile as the car slowed up. Stevens was there, too, just a machine, neither glad nor sorry that she had been brought back, only indifferent.

She looked back along the straight road, the way to freedom; over the marshes where the night mists rose. Seven miles from the station; but it might have been seventy. What a fool she had been, she saw it now. She should have slipped from the cart the moment they were outside and dashed across the marshes, trusting to find the dry track. The mist would have done more for her than any cart. And now it was too late.

Mrs. Vestington held her arm with a grip of steel; hers was a hand that never let go. Elizabeth bent suddenly and her sharp little teeth almost met in that clawlike hand. Mrs. Vestington released her with a cry of pain and dismay and Elizabeth sprang from the car and dashed into the mist that covered the marshes, flying as if pursued by fiends. That the two old men and Blossom were in search for her, she knew, but after all they were old and she was young, and desperation lent wings to her feet.

At times she was on the dry track which she knew led to the station, at other times she was off it, almost up to her knees in bog and water. The strips she had wrapped round her shoes tripped her up by coming under her feet, and she tore them off. Splish! She had tumbled into it, and crawled out through sticky mud. The mud grew thicker and sweeter, a drizzle, what little light was left failed and a gray darkness over the land. On here and there, flickered lights showed them blind-marsh lights; they led her deeper and deeper, and she remembered into the wills of the wisps the disaster, and terror of fantasy gripped her, for at night that marshes it was difficult to find common sense to aid. She grew sick stricken, fleeing from the terror behind to the terror in front, some maddened captive caught between two fires. It seemed to her that hands reached up and dragged at her, at her clothes, her legs, her hands; there came tearing sounds. Something warm trickled from one of her legs, and her stocking had fallen over her shoe. When she would have pulled it up she found it torn in several places. On and on, stumbling from one marsh into another, out of the marsh on to the track; then off the track, knowing herself lost, but still running on with a great pain in her side and no breath left in her body. The thorned hands caught at her, the black mud sucked her down, always the wind whistled and mocked and the marsh lights bobbed this way and that. The rain grew colder, the night quite dark, as if the night of eternity itself, and she dozed forever to wander in it; always seeking the road of escape, never finding. Several times she fell from exhaustion, yet always fear brought her to her legs again, to that frantic stumbling running. And then the wind and rain died down and there came a great silence, the slow birth of dawn. Just ahead was a clear dry path, and she staggered along it, her head held down no longer, for all feeling had ceased to be. Some mechanism over which she had no control was taking her somewhere. And then she saw railway lines and her heart leaped joyfully. The station might be close, but which way did it lie, to the right or to the left? She looked at her watch, almost 3 o'clock. The lines must take her to somewhere, to some station sooner or later; perhaps to the London Express. The London Express—and Stephen! Also Stephen's widow! And there just a few yards ahead the station, the rails quivered and she caught her breath. The train was going into the station, and she would just miss it. It had passed her. She panted after it with cracking ribs. It waited, but how long would it wait? Only till the milk cans were bundled on; there were few passengers to be taken up at such an hour; they were in the train that reached the station a few minutes before, and their coaches were attached while they slept on. Oh, surely that would take a little time. She had come to the last coaches now, but the guard was blowing his whistle, the train was already slowly moving. She gave a cry of despair and the next moment had darted for the footboard, had somehow clambered on, and watched by a red indignant face, had tumbled into an empty carriage, falling across the seat in a dead faint.

When she came to herself, the red face was bending over her, angry disapproval written all over it. "Look here," said the guard, "you can't do this sort of thing, young woman. Boarding the train when in motion. Against the rules."

"I don't care!" said Elizabeth faintly. Care! She was thankful the train was going fast now. The man looked down at her. On disgust. A creature like in rags; his train! Filthy, filthy! A young wild-eyed, wild-headed as if she tramp, a gypsy, certainly half had been fighting off her back. Clothes, filthy, bloody, it was coming to something or ticket?" he commanded.

"Where's your ticket?" said Elizabeth. "What ticket?" "You can't travel on a train without a ticket. Defrauding the company! It's your ticket, and if you've got no ticket, then where's the money to pay for it? Where am I to look for that, I'd like to know?" Money? Elizabeth brought her thoughts slowly to the question. She had had a lot of money but they had taken it from her, kept it in that place of torment.

"That devil has got it all," she said, beginning to laugh wildly. "You'll have to look for it there, in hell, you know." She rocked to and fro in hysterical laughter, quite unable to stop.

The guard felt the insult more than he could bear. Full-mouthed young trooper. Well, he'd know how to deal with her when they reached London; there would be more than one charge. "Boarding a train in motion, traveling without a ticket; using obscene language to a personage in execution of his duty; being drunk and disorderly; and goodness only knows what else. That blood on her hands, where did that come from, he'd like to know? Perhaps she'd been doing a murder and was trying to escape. Well, that she would not do.
